Industries

NATIONAL ELECTRIC PRODUCTS CORPORATION LARGEST IN WORLD

Among the men and women who settled in the little town of Ambridge in 1905 was William Christopher Robinson, who began, with an organization of 15 men, to make metal molding, a revolutionary idea in the electric industry.

Under the name National Metal Molding Company, Robinson began manufacturing in a two story brick building on the corner of 14th and Railroad streets, adding new products and keeping pace with electrical development through the years. In some respects Robinson was ahead of the industry, especially in the matter of electric wiring systems for automobiles. He constructed, in the early days of the car, a mock automobile chassis, wired it, and demonstrated it to every automobile plant in the country. Although it later became the basis of today's intricate auto wiring system, it was not accepted at that time because of the problem of vibration in automobiles.

National was an important factor in both World Wars, manufacturing and shipping large quantities of wire, cable and raceways to the training camps that sprang up across the country.

In 1928 National merged with the American Copper Products Company and adopted its present name, the National Electric Products Corporation.

After World War II National focussed on peacetime use of products developed to help win the war. A new era was launched with an extensive building program at the Ambridge plant plus the purchasing of plants at Torrance, California, and Elizabeth, New Jersey. Not only have these changes added to the size of the company, but they have also increased its leadership in the electrical field.

A. M. BYERS COMPANY AMERICA'S OLDEST AND LARGEST PRODUCER OF WROUGHT IRON PRODUCTS

The A. M. Byers Company, America's Oldest and Largest Producer of Wrought Iron Products, has been a member of the industrial community of Ambridge since 1930.

It was on October 8 of that year when this great plant, located between the Ohio River and Route 88 in adjacent Harmony Township, was dedicated, and its opening marked the beginning of a new era in the manufacture of this time-proved metal.

Designed for what is now known as the Byers Process for manufacturing wrought iron, this new production method permitted for the first time, quantity production, quality control of operation, and assurance of uniformity in the product that was undreamed of by the old iron manufacturers.

The raw materials from which wrought iron is made by this method consists of pig iron, iron oxide, and silica slag. In this process, pig iron is melted in cupolas and purified in Bessemer Convertors to the highly refined state required for the base metal in quality wrought iron. The base metal is then processed in molten iron silicate slag resulting in wrought iron of uniform and high quality.

SPANG-CHALFANT PIPE USED THROUGHOUT WORLD

The Spang-Chalfant Division plant of the National Supply Company at Ambridge is one of the larger tubular mills in the United States, covering 110 acres and has an annual capacity of 366,000 tons.

The plant's principal products are drill pipe, used in turning a drill bit as it pushes its way far below the earth's surface; casing, used to hold back the earthen walls of a well; and tubing, the pipe through which oil is brought to the surface.

All are made to rigid standards established by the American Petroleum Institute, and a large percentage of the output incorporates special design features developed in the Spang-Chalfant Research Laboratory and are available only in Spang products.

These specialty products are widely used, particularly in deep drilling. For example, Spang casing was chosen for the world's deepest producing well, recently completed in California. There the casing string is 17,500 feet long, extending more than three miles into the earth!

The mill was established in 1913 by the Standard Seamless Tube Company. This company sold out in 1928 to the Spang-Chalfant Company, founded in 1828 at Etna, Pa. In 1930 Spang-Chalfant was acquired by The National Supply Company, which is the largest manufacturer and distributor of oil field machinery and equipment in the world.

VULCAN CRUCIBLE TOOL STEEL SPECIALISTS

The Vulcan Crucible Steel Company was founded in 1901 in Aliquippa to manufacture tool steel under a secret process of Wuth and Stafford, chemists and metallurgists of Pittsburgh.

Under the Wuth and Stafford process American-made muck bar, puddled iron, could be used instead of imported Swedish iron, at a great saving in cost. Tool steel at that time was made in the Crucible furnace, and that is the reason for the word "Crucible" in the company name.

In 1916 the first electric melting furnace was installed, and shortly thereafter the Crucible furnaces were discontinued.

The company makes only tool steel of the finest quality, and its products go into such tools as high speed steel metal cutting tools, high alloy steels for the cold and hot forging and shaping of all metals and the straight carbon and mild alloy tool steels of innumerable uses. The users of tool steel include automobile plants, tool and die makers, steel mills, and all types of manufacturing plants.

Tool steels are generally furnished in the soft or annealed condition, and are machined into tools which are then hardened by heat treating. They may be made hard enough to scratch glass or so tough that they may be tied in a knot while cold. They constitute an essential supply in our modern industrial age, and the Vulcan Crucible Steel Companys one of the old line tool steel manufacturers.

H. H. ROBERTSON PLANT STARTED IN 1905

The H. H. Robertson Company began the manufacture of the world's first protected metal at Canton, Mass., in 1905, but has attained its greatest growth in Ambridge, where the plant property covers 33 acres.

Prior to 1905 industrial roofing and siding materials had a comparatively short service life. Industry had no choice but to build with heavy, slow, expensive materials, entirely unsuited to the processes that took place within the buildings. Steel sheets, as a covering material, were light and strong but required frequent painting, and even then did not stand up well under corrosive influences.

H. H. Robertson believed that the advantages of steel could be made available if the steel were properly protected from deterioration. This he did by sheathing the steel core sheet in a covering of asbestos felt which in turn was waterproofed. The sheets were then corrugated to give them structural strength.

Because it saved time, construction cost, and was maintenance-free, the Protected Metal idea caught on fast, and the small plant at Canton was not able to cope with the demand. The decision was made to move the entire plant to Beaver Falls, in the heart of the raw material and transportation facilities. But even these larger quarters became too small, and a final move was made to Ambridge.

Research has always been of the greatest importance to the H. H. Robertson Company, and in addition to its own laboratories the Company established the first building materials fellowship at the world-famous Mellon Institute of Industrial Research in Pittsburgh.

Robertson research not only improved existing products, but also produced the first scientifically-designed roof ventilator, the first putty-less skylight, and its Q-products, the first of which was the Robertson Q-Floor.

WYCKOFF STEEL LARGE INDEPENDENT

The Wyckoff Steel Company, one of the largest independent producers of cold finished steels in the country, began operations at Ambridge in 1920.

In two short years Wyckoff had outgrown its plant and was forced to double its manufacturing facilities here. In the years that have since passed, Wyckoff has purchased or built modern, well equipped plants in Chicago, Ill., Newark, N. J. and Putnam, Conn., in order to meet the constantly increasing demand for Wyckoff Steel.

Today these four plants offer a combined capacity of more than 325,000 net tons of finished steels annually, and are backed by a coast-to-coast organization of district representatives, plus complete warehouse stocks maintained by Wyckoff distributors in every large industrial community throughout the country.

In the manufacture of Wyckoff Cold Finished Steels, every step is supervised by experienced and metallurgically trained men. Extreme care is exercised in the control of all operations to insure those qualities of fitness and uniformity in the finished product so essential to the maintenance of present day production standards.

BEAVER COUNTY

POPULATION FROM 1800

The steady growth in the population of Beaver County is best shown by the following table of United States Census figures from 1800 to 1950:

1800— 5,776	1850— 26,689	1900— 56,432
1810— 12,168	1860— 29,140	1910— 78,353
1820— 15,340	1870— 36,148	1920—111,621
1830— 24,183	1880— 39,605	1930—149,062
1840— 29,368	1890— 50,077	1940—156,754
		1950—175,192

It is estimated that at the present time (1955) the population is close to the 200,000 mark, and that the 1960 census will exceed that figure.

It is interesting to note how the 175,192 population of 1950 is broken down among the minor political divisions of the county. Aliquippa Borough, with 26,132, led Beaver Falls City with 17,375, and Ambridge was a close third with 16,429. The complete County breakdown follows:

IN OLD ECONOMY

The Granary of Old Economy is in back of the Feast Hall. In its basement the distribution of grain for baking and spirits was made periodically to the members of the Society. This is one of the buildings being restored by the Pennsylvania Historical Commission under the direction of Lawrence Thurman, Curator.

HISTORY OF THE DAILY CITIZEN

The first edition of the Ambridge Citizen was published on July 29, 1904, by John E. Joos, W. L. McCullough and Joseph Lehan. The actual printing was done in Pittsburgh.

McCullough, advertising manager for the Pittsburgh Bank for Savings, bought out his two partners on Oct. 1, 1904, and was the sole owner until December of the same year, when he sold his interests to Paul A. Revere, who set up an office in the Ambridge Savings and Trust Company building.

To enlarge the scope and activities of the newspaper Revere formed a corporation in which he was the majority stockholder, with Carl F. Straube as president, McCullough vice president, and Fred B. Barr, treasurer. Revere acted as Secretary of the company, in addition to being editor and manager of the paper.

Revere encountered a threat of opposition from H. Lee Goerman, who did job printing, and answered the challenge by setting up Ambridge's first newspaper plant. This he did by renting a one-story frame building in the alley above Merchant street between Fourth and Fifth. The plant, consisting of two rooms, a bath and a cellar, was quickly filled with an old Cottrell cylinder press, which printed two pages, an 8 by 10 Chasdler and Price job press, a gas engine, composing stones, a paper cutter, and a collection of second-hand type. William Leigh, of Beaver Falls, was the first mechanical superintendent, and he brought order out of choas in time to run off the first edition on October 6, 1905.

New advertising type, equipment cases and racks were added, but the reading matter was still set up on linotype in Pittsburgh. Late stories were set up by hand in Ambridge. A patented inside was bought from Pittsburgh. The paper was printed on Fridays, two pages at a time, containing six columns, twenty inches long. On January 11 1906, the publication date was changed from Friday to Thursday.

Leight left the firm on February 21, 1906, and Ray C. Neuroh was promoted to shop foreman, with Frank R. Wilson, of Mercer, as assistant. Wilson reported on March 1, 1906, and has been almost continuously with the Citizen since. He was promoted to foreman on Dec. 5, 1907, when Neuroh left.

The Ambridge-Economy Citizen purchased the Jacob Henrici book store at 458 Merchant street, with part of the purchase price being paid in stock. The offices and plant of the newspaper were moved to this new location. New equipment was purchased, and Pittsburgh composition was discontinued.

McNEES ELECTED PRESIDENT

D. L. McNees, a graduate of Allegheny College, had been connected with the Beaver Star for twelve years when he was called to Ambridge on August 6, 1908, to take over the job as president of the Citizen and later editor and manager.

Another move was made on April 2, 1909, after the business had outgrown its former location, and the address of the Citizen became Seventh and Merchant streets. Then D. L. McNees installed the first linotype on July 7, 1910, and sent Frank R. Wilson to New York for a six-weeks course in the Linotype school.

FIRST DAILY IN 1911

The first Daily Citizen made its appearance on October 21, 1911, as a result of a six weeks evangelistic campaign put on by all the Protestant churches in Ambridge under the guidance of Rev. Manley Wilson. The committee in charge had approached Mr. McNees with the proposition of issuing a daily paper during the time the Rev. Wilson and his party were here, and they agreed to secure 500 subscriptions at 10 cents per week. The daily was a four-page paper; the Ambridge-Economy weekly was still printed on Fridays. At the end of the six weeks the weekly was dropped and the Citizen became a regular daily.

Even though $5,000 had been expended in improvements up to this time, the equipment was still not sufficient to handle the increased business, and on March 16, 1912, a Cranston newspaper press, capable of printing four pages at a time, was installed.

Experience proved that Ambridge was not yet ready for a daily, so the Daily Citizen was discontinued in favor of The Citizen, which was published Tuesdays and Fridays.

The passing years brought other changes. A newspaper folder was added in September of 1913; a Miller platen press and feeder in January, 1917. In January of 1919 D. L. McNees purchased the Cunningham building at 624-26 Maplewood avenue, and this increased the working space to double that available at the old location. The plant was moved on March 8, 1919, with the press being skidded over the alley to its new location on a flat bed sled.

A second linotype machine was bought in 1921 and in December of 1922 the Cranston press was replaced by a Goss Comet web press which printed and folded eight pages.

F. R. McNEES JOINS STAFF

Floyd R. McNees, who had been working for his father during vacations and at other times, became a member of the firm on April 24, 1923, as secretary and advertising manager, and on September 17, 1923, the Citizen became a tri-weekly, publishing on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

The mechanical department of the paper continued to find improvements necessary to a modern newspaper plant. A Ludlow type casting machine, the first in Beaver County, was installed in May of 1926; the third Linotype machine in April of 1928; and the county's first Lanston Monotype strip material casting machine in Sept. of 1928; the Citizen became a daily again on March 4, 1929, with circulation averaging 3,600; new editorial offices were opened in June of 1930; and in July of the same year the first paper was run off on the Goss high speed rotary press, which was capable of producing 20,000 papers an hour, and of printing as many as 36 pages simultaneously.

While at the pinnacle of his career, an automobile accident took the life of D. L. McNees on June 19, 1931 as he was enroute home from Grove City. The Daily Citizen was fortunate that its next head brought no break with the traditions and policies which had thus far proven so successful, for the death of D. L. McNees was keenly felt.

FLOYD R. McNEES PRESIDENT

Floyd R. McNees, who then became editor and president, had for almost ten years been his father's associate and was thoroughly familiar with the routine of getting out a paper. Experienced as he was in both editorial and advertising work, F. R. McNees was ideally fitted for the task ahead—weathering the great depression of the early 1930's.

Assisting him he had E. F. Edwards as advertising manager, Clair N. Kinney as city editor and Vaughn R. Arnold, present publisher, who took complete charge of all accounting, credit and the commercial printing department.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY FLOOD

The great flood on March 17, 1936, brought greater problems to the modern Daily Citizen than the pioneers had experienced in publishing the weekly in 1904.

Due to the break in the gas mains, the linotype machines, which are heated by gas, went out of operation. The Sewickley Herald lent the use of two linotypes; the Beaver Daily Times sent five galleys of their early copy; two days later when the electricity went out and paralyzed the plant entirely, a four page edition was made possible by the use of the Beaver Falls News-Tribune's equipment and operators.

On the fourth day all of the papers in the county lost their power, and only the ingenuity of the staff made it possible to print a paper. The equipment was primitive but effective:

A small gasoline engine was taken from a washing machine lent by C. F. Milleman, Ambridge merchant, and attached to one of the linotype machines; the pulleys and gadgets needed were obtained from the mangle and washing machine of Mrs. Anna Ross, 184 Sixth street; the operators worked all night by kerosene lamps and flashlights. The entire force was kept busy setting copy by hand the Citizen's portable saw for trimming advertising cuts was sent to the National Electric Products Corporation plant, where there was a source of power; and finally the forms and type were sent by automobile to Butler where the paper was printed on the Butler Eagle press!

News gathering was also difficult. The telephone lines to Pittsburgh were out, and even local service was limited. But on Monday, March 23, the Citizen resumed business as usual even though the theatres did not reopen until the 26th and the plants resumed operations the following day.

JUNIOR MERCHANT SYSTEM

An innovation in 1936 in the distribution of papers was the Junior Merchant system, by which the carriers were allocated exclusive territories; given complete charge of all collections; and bought their papers at wholesale prices. This system found immediate favor with both the customers and carriers.

F. R. McNEES STRICKEN

Early in 1936 Floyd R. McNees, president of the Daily Citizen, was stricken with illness, and after a losing fight of over a year, died at his home, 904 Maplewood avenue, on May 23, 1937. Reporting his death, an article in the Daily Citizen said, in part:

"Confined to the hospital and his home for an extended interval, after a series of operations, the young publisher managed, nevertheless, to write occasional editorials and to keep in touch with his business and public affairs. He was keenly interested in the newspaper calling in which he had been engaged with his father since his graduation from college and release from World War service."

Out of respect to the late publisher, there was no issue of the paper on Tuesday, May 25, 1937.

A 40-page paper was published on March 21, 1939, commemorating the 35th anniversary; on June 12, 1940, a 62-page Progress and Achievement edition was published; and on August 25, 1954, a 50th Anniversary edition of 144 pages was published—the largest ever produced at the Ambridge plant.

The speed and production of the commercial printing department was increased through the years by the addition of new and improved equipment. One of the newest of these is a Multilith press, which was duplicate half-tone forms, ruled forms, maps, letterheads or the exact duplication of any copy by a simple photographic process. This department is in charge of Raymond Leech, who came to the Citizen in 1932.

In 1951 the present home of the Daily Citizen was built and occupied at 930-40 Glenwood Avenue.

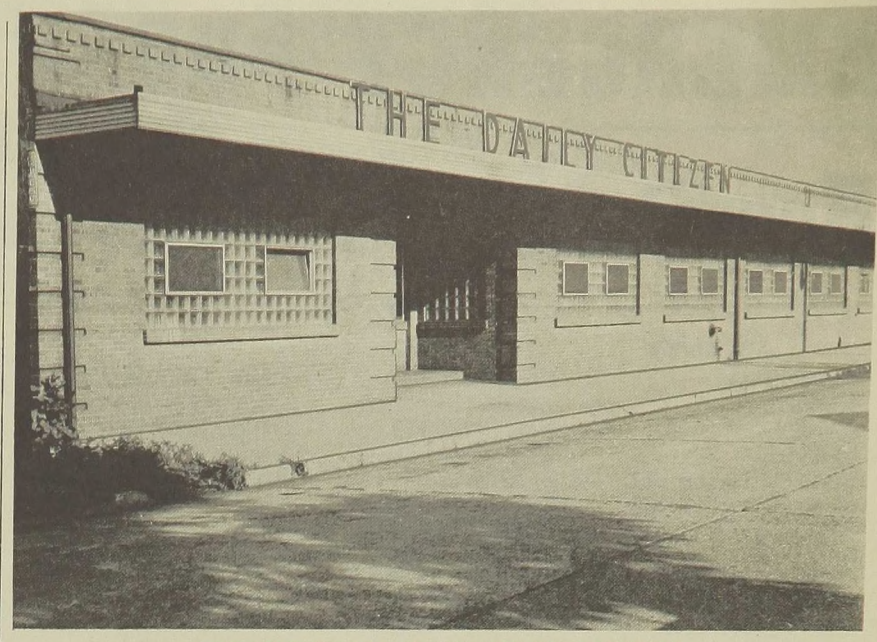

The modern glass, brick and cement block, fireproof newspaper building is located in the center of town. This new structure features aluminum windows, doors and screens, an automatic sprinkling system, acoustic ceilings, asphalt tile floor, blonde paneling and hot air gas heat. Occupying 14,000 square feet of ground, the building also houses the engraving and photo departments as well as the job shop.

A 64-page capacity Goss Press, which prints in black and color, was purchased in Dallas, Texas, and shipped north in four box cars. Its assembly took eight weeks.

The press, which is set on a special reinforced concrete foundation, can print 600 papers a minute. Three men form its crew.

On an average day the Daily Citizen uses about a ton and a half of paper, two tons of metal and 30 pounds of ink.

In addition to the five-day daily, the Daily Citizen also prints the News-Herald weekly, which is distributed in the Aliquippa area.

PRESENT HOME OF THE DAILY CITIZEN

A TYPICAL DAILY CITIZEN SALUTE

In one of its 1955 editions the Daily Citizen printed the above picture and the story of the Alex Urda family's home-made tractor. The tractor had been built to help Urda maintain the grounds of his Economy Township home, but the children got more use out of it than did the grounds. The ingenuity shown by Urda, a Spang-Chalfant employee, is typical of that displayed by thousands of skilled workers in the Ambridge area.

IN CASE OF ATOMIC ATTACK

Remember this Special Radio Frequency: 640 k. c. or 1240 k. c.

Under the CONELRAD System, in case of enemy attack, all radios will go off the air and certain stations will begin broadcasting at 640 kilocycles and 1240 kilocycles. Turn your radio to 64 or 124 for messages from federal, state and local Civilian Defense agencies.

KNOW THESE OFFICIAL AIR RAID SIGNALS:

ALERT: 3 Minutes of wailing sirens or horns.
ALL CLEAR: 3 One Minute blasts. Two minutes of silence between blasts.

FOLLOW THESE AIR RAID INSTRUCTIONS:

FIRE is an air raid's most horrible result. Take sensible precautions against causes of unnecessary fires—faulty electrical circuits and fixtures, accumulated junk and trash. Keep your home clear of fire hazards.

ATOMIC ATTACK PROTECTION

ALWAYS Put First Things First And NEVER Lose Your Head And —

1. TRY TO GET SHIELDED
   If you have time, get down in a basement or subway. Should you unexpectedly be caught out-of-doors, seek shelter alongside a building, or jump in any handy ditch or gutter.

2. DROP FLAT ON GROUND OR FLOOR
   To keep from being tossed about and to lessen the chances of being struck by falling and flying objects, flatten out at the base of a wall, or at the bottom of a bank.

3. BURY YOUR FACE IN YOUR HANDS
   When you drop flat, hide your eyes in the crook of your elbow. That will protect your face from flash burns, prevent temporary blindness and keep flying objects out of your eyes.

4. DON'T RUSH OUTSIDE RIGHT AFTER A BOMBING
   After an air burst, wait a few minutes, then go help to fight fires. After other kinds of bursts, wait at least one hour to give lingering radiation some chance to die down.

5. DON'T TAKE CHANCES WITH FOOD OR WATER IN OPEN CONTAINERS
   To prevent radioactive poisoning or disease, select your food and water with care. When there is reason to believe they may be contaminated, stick to canned and bottled things if possible.

6. DON'T START RUMORS
   In the confusion that follows a bombing, a single rumor might touch off a panic that could cost your life.

KEYS TO HOUSEHOLD SAFETY

1. STRIVE FOR "FIREPROOF HOUSEKEEPING"
   Don't let trash pile up, and keep waste paper in covered containers. When an alert sounds, do all you can to eliminate sparks by shutting off the oil burner and covering all open flames.

2. KNOW YOUR OWN HOME
   Know which is the safest part of your cellar, learn how to turn off your oil burner and what to do about utilities.

3. HAVE EMERGENCY EQUIPMENT AND SUPPLIES HANDY
   Always have a good flashlight, a radio, first-aid equipment and a supply of canned goods in the house.

4. CLOSE ALL WINDOWS AND DOORS AND DRAW THE BLINDS
   If you have time when an alert sounds, close the house up tight in order to keep out fire sparks and radioactive dusts and to lessen the chances of being cut by flying glass. Keep the house closed until all danger is past.

5. USE THE TELEPHONE ONLY FOR TRUE EMERGENCIES
   Do not use the phone unless absolutely necessary. Leave the lines open for real emergency traffic.

BOROUGH OF AMBRIDGE, PA.

The first inhabitants of the Ambridge area were Indians who lived at Logstown (site of the A. M. Byers plant) from 1725 to 1758 and the first white visitors were Virginians who signed a treaty here in 1732.

In 1748, an agent of Pennsylvania, Conrad Weiser, held a parley with the Indians at the same place.

The first religious service was a mass said by a French priest, Joseph Peter Bonnecamp, who stopped at Logstown while on an exploring voyage on the Ohio.

In June, 1824, the Harmony Society landed here from Indiana after purchasing 3,000 acres, and settled Old Economy, a large part of which is preserved by the Pennsylvania Historical Commission with Lawrence Thurman as Curator.

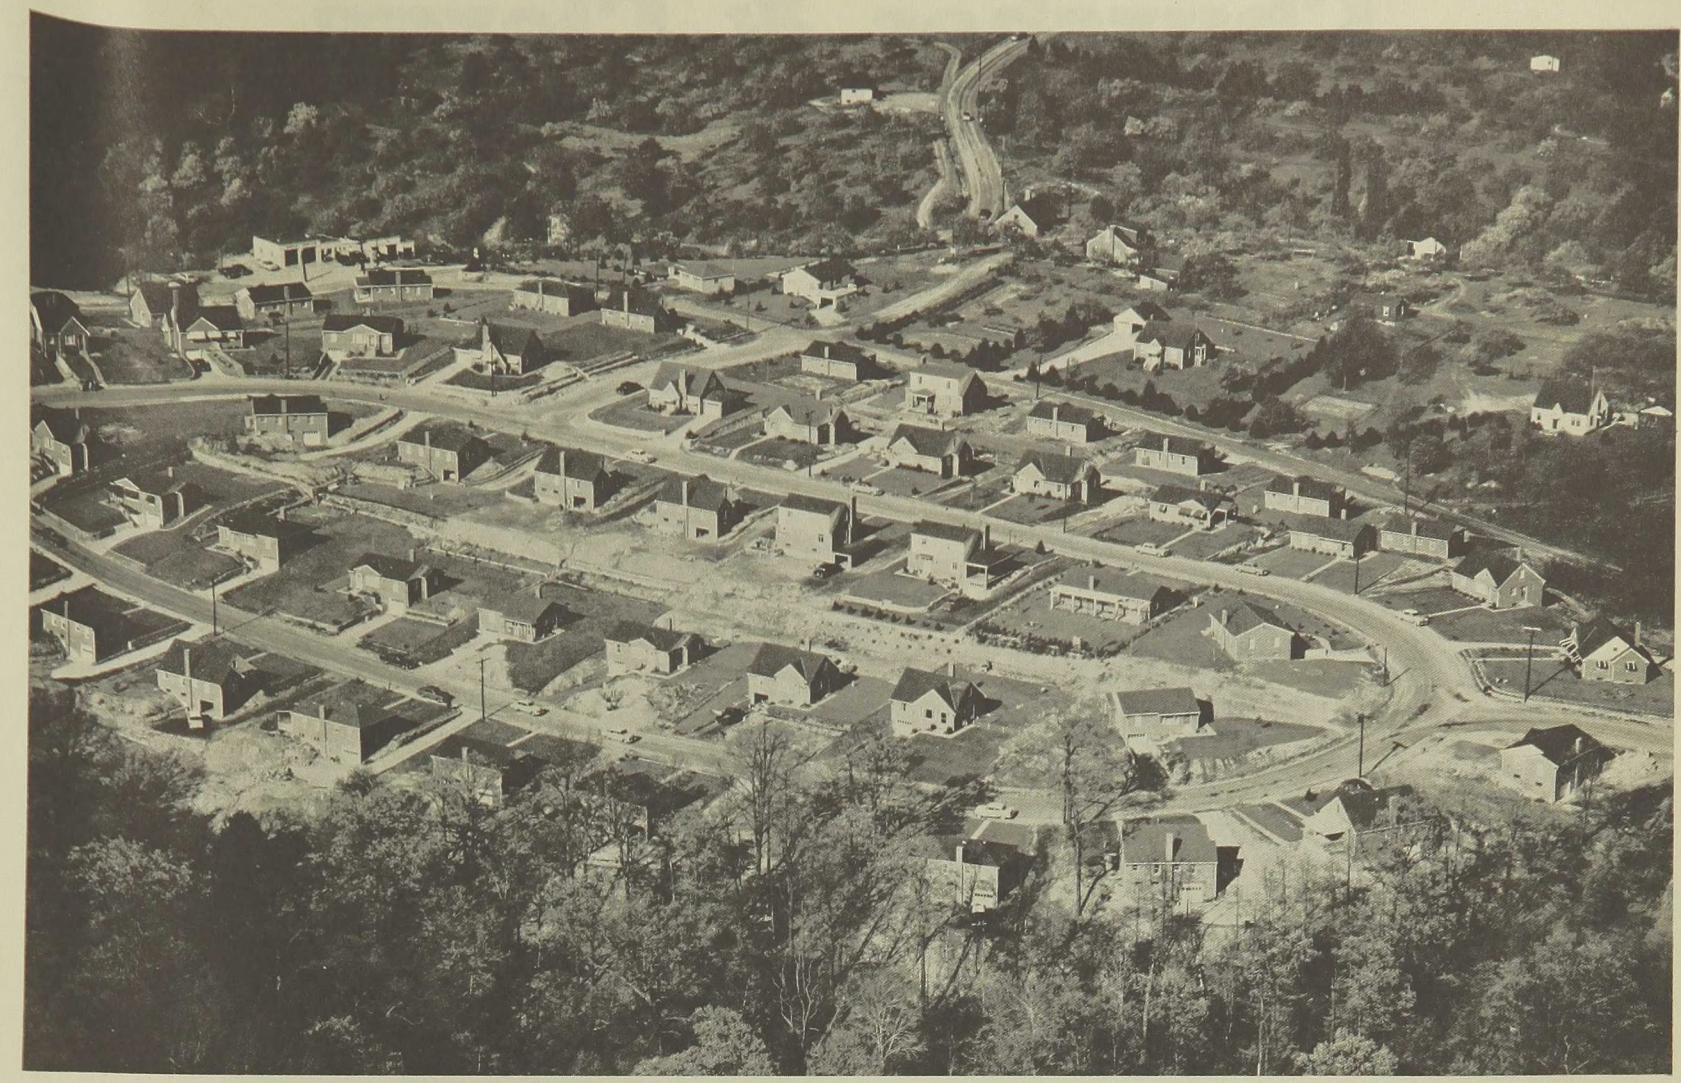

In 1826, Duke Bernhard of Saxe-Weimar visited Economy, and another early 19th Century visitor was Rudyard Kipling, the English author. In 1849 the Harmony Society entertained President Zachary Taylor.

The first railroad to serve Economy was the Ohio and Pennsylvania, completed in 1853.

In 1902 and 1903 the Harmony Society sold more than 2,500 acres as a site for a bridge-building plant and a town. The new community was shortly thereafter called Ambridge, after the American Bridge Company which bought the property when the original buyer went out of business before completing the plant.

In May, 1905, the borough of Ambridge was incorporated, including the communities of Economy and Ambridge, which had been parts of Harmony Township.

Today Ambridge is the third largest community in Beaver County with a 1950 census figure of 16,429 (now estimated at close to 20,000) ; is the shopping center for more than 35,000 residents of Allegheny and Beaver Counties, and possesses what is perhaps the most diversified industry of any community of its size in the world.

BRIEFS

Ambridge's first recreation hall was built at 10th and Melrose streets in the early 1920's. It was used for Boys Scout meetings and similar affairs.

Little League baseball is not a new idea to Ambridge. As early as 1902 the youngsters had a team, called "Castalia," with Grant Peters, Wayne Kline, Fred Jessen, Albert Heberling, David See, James Bruff, Leonard Jewell, Allan Rye, William Miller, Jack Bauder as players and Henry Miller and Earl Mercer as mascots.

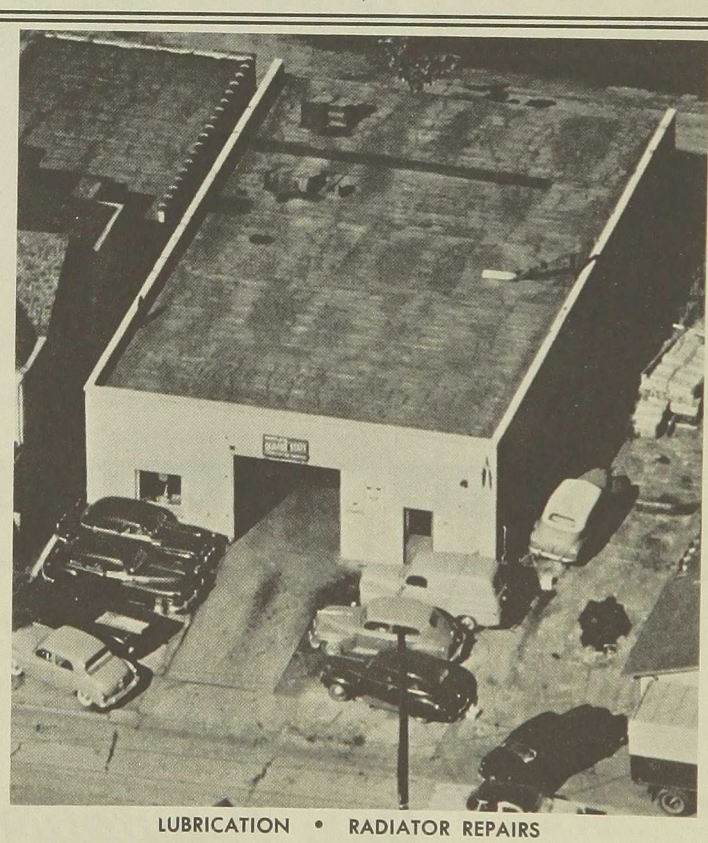

The 1907 depression brought some rough times to Ambridge. On November 7, 1907, the American Bridge Company, the Riter Conley Company and the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation issued clearing house checks to their employees. (The Bridge company alone paid $104,000 in script.) Pandemonium arose among the foreign laborers and many, thinking the "paper" was no good, sold it for half of what it was worth!

The Ambridge Country Club was granted a charter in June of 1923 for the purpose of "maintaining a club for social purposes by providing a club house and grounds for the use of the members as a place of recreation." The club is situated on a 95-acre plot on Ridge road with a nine-hole golf course, a clubhouse that is the scene of many social highlights annually, and has a membership of 225.

HEADLINES IN THE CITIZEN IN 1906: Clover Lodge, No. 348, of Ambridge was instituted by distinguished members of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. . . .a coal mine explosion in Wales cost the lives of 120 men. . . .Miss Alice Roosevelt, daughter of the president, confirmed rumors of her engagement to Congressman Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio. . . . Fashion Note: "the most elaborate tea gowns are triumphs of the dressmaker's art. The long loose coat of thin flowered silk or gauze worn over a pleated red underdress of white lawn and chiffon is charmingly picturesque". . .

LAUGHLIN MEMORIAL LIBRARY, ONE OF AMERICA'S FINEST

One of the finest and most beautiful library buildings in America is the Laughlin Memorial Library, presented to the Borough of Ambridge by Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Laughlin as a memorial to their son, Major Alexander Laughlin, Jr., on July 6, 1929.

Major Laughlin was an industrialist as well as a soldier in World War I, and his memory is perpetuated in the Italian Renaissance building by a bronze plaque, in the center of which is a bust of the Major, with figures representing industry and patriotism on either side.

Located on Eleventh street at Church, the library is almost a perfect square, with sides of approximately 85 feet. Its main doors are beneath an exterior portico supported by Roman Doric columns of Indiana limestone.

After crossing the portico, one passes through cast bronze doors into a vestibule and then enters an awe-inspiring interior.

In the center is a spacious area floored with English vein marble and lighted from above by clerestory windows. Outlining this central area are 16 monolithic columns of Italian black and gold marble, which were quarried from the top of a mountain on the island of Palermo, off the coast of Italy.

The appointments of the library are in keeping with the general construction, and reflect the value of the building, which cost $300,000 when erected in 1929.

The present librarian is Mrs. Sarah D. Caldwell, who supervises the issuance of the more than 20,000 volumes and the maintenance of hundreds of priceless first editions and historical books, which are available for reference in the library's spacious quarters.

The lower floor contains a large assembly hall, 50 by 30 feet, which is used for meetings, classes and demonstrations.

HISTORY OF THE IRON & STEEL INDUSTRY IN BEAVER COUNTY

Excerpts from article by James M. Swank, General Manager of the American Iron and Steel Association (1904).

Immediately after the organization of Beaver County in 1800 the manufacture of iron from the raw materials was undertaken in a small way within its limits.

A blast furnace was built at Beaver Falls, then called Brighton, on the west side of the Beaver River, in 1802, by Hoopes, Townsend & Co., and blown in in 1804. A forge was connected with it from the beginning and it was in operation in 1806, according to Cramer's Pittsburgh Almanac. Both the furnace and the forge were in operation in 1816. The whole enterprise was abandoned until 1826, after frequent changes of ownership. The ore used at the furnace was picked out of gravel banks in the neighborhood in very small lumps. The fuel used was charcoal.

There was another early charcoal furnace in this county, named Bassenheim, built by Detmar Bassé, the history of which is so interesting that we make room for the following letter we received many years ago from Mr. Henry Muntz, an aged citizen of Zelienople, Butler County.

"Bassenheim Furnace was built and put into operation in the year 1814 by Detmar Bassé, a German gentlemen of education, much enterprise and some means. He carried it on to 1818, when he sold out to Daniel Beltzhoover, Robinson & McNickle, who worked it five or six years more. About that time, viz., 1824, the charcoal and iron ore beginning to fail in the neighborhood, and their capital being pretty much sunk, they ceased operations and retired, leaving the furnace a ruin, and now there is nothing to mark the place of its location except a large stack of stone overgrown with moss and bushes, and also a great pile of cinders, clinkers, and ashes, to show where the furnace had been. This furnace was not located in Butler County, but in the adjoining county of Beaver, between two and three miles from Zelienople and lower down the Conoquenessing Creek and about a mile west of the Butler county line. Its owners, Detmar Bassé and also Daniel Beltzhoover, resided at Bassenheim farm on the Butler side of the county line, and much of its business was transacted at Zelienople.

"These circumstances will account for the popular belief that this furnace was located in Butler County. There was no forge connected with it, nor any other work except to convert iron ore into pig metal, stoves, kettles, pots, fire irons, etc. The ore was mostly dug out of the ground within a mile or two of the furnace in lumps weighing from one pound to fifty, generally of a blue color. At first the bellows was blown by waterpower, but, after the high water of the creek had washed one of the abutments of the dam away, and let the water out, the owners were obliged to apply a steam-engine at considerable expense, by which it was afterwards operated with much trouble and little profit. After the War of 1812 times were very hard and money exceedingly scarce. One other reason that this work did not succeed and pay better was the great expense of getting its metal and ware to a market. I remember well that in February, 1818, $12 per ton were paid for hauling the pig metal to Pittsburgh, thirty miles, over a bad road."

1904 IRON & STEEL REPORT

Mr. Bassé's homestead, "Bassenheim," stood on the hillside near Zelienople, in Butler County. Zelienople was so named after Mr. Bassé's daughter, Zelie, who became the wife of a fine German gentleman, Phillip Passavant, and the mother of the late philanthropist, Rev. William A. Passavant, D.D.

John Henry Hopkins, who subsequently rose to distinction as Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Vermont, was a clerk at Bassenheim Furnace about 1815. He was afterwards manager of Hermitage Furnace, in Ligonier Valley, in 1816 and 1817, when it was operated by O'Hara & Scully. Hermitage Furnace had been built around 1802 by General Arthur St. Clair, who failed in business in 1810.

Still another furnace in Beaver County was Homewood, in the northwestern part of the county, on the Beaver Canal, near the mouth of the Conoquenessing Creek, and two miles from Homewood station on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway. It was built by James Wood of Pittsburg, to use coke or bituminous coal and was put in blast in 1858. It was finally blown out in 1867 or 1868. There are now (1904) no blast furnaces in Beaver County.

The manufacture of finished forms of iron and steel, in which Beaver County is now so prominent, was commenced in this county several years after its first blast furnace was built in 1802, the admirable water-power furnished by the Beaver River and the facilities for shipment afforded by the Ohio River and subsequently by the Beaver Canal presenting special inducements to manufacturers of iron and steel products, as well as to millers, wood workers, and other manufacturers.

In 1828 Robert Townsend & Co. built at Fallston, on the opposite side of Beaver River from New Brighton, in Beaver County, a mill for the manufacture of iron wire. In 1864 Robert Townsend retired from the company and W. P. Townsend became the head of the firm, which was thereafter styled W. P. Townsend & Co. W. P. Townsend, son of Robert Townsend, retired in 1894 and was succeeded by his sons, constituting the present firm of C. C. & E. P. Townsend. About 1852 the manufacture of rivets was added to the business, and in 1887 the manufacture of wire nails was commenced. The founder of this early and successful enterprise, Robert Townsend, was at first a dealer in wire and wire goods, having engaged in this business in 1816 on Market Street, Pittsburg. One of the buildings of the present firm of C. C. & E. P. Townsend at Fallston occupies the site of Robert Townsend's first mill, built in 1828. The firm of Hoopes, Townsend & Co., mentioned above in connection with Beaver County's first blast furnace, had no connection whatever with Robert Townsend's wire enterprise.

For more than a quarter of a century Beaver Falls has been one of this country's prominent iron and steel manufacturing centers. In 1859 the Harmony Society (commonly styled the Economites) bought several hundred acres of farm land at what is now the town of Beaver Falls, and subsequently it bought other farms adjoining its first purchase, all of which it laid out into town lots and in time sold, at the same time offering inducements to business men to establish manufacturing plants at the new town, one of these inducements being the excellent water-power which the Society controlled. It was not long until the Society itself became actively engaged in various manufacturing enterprises at Beaver Falls. As the result of its own enterprise and that of others the manufacture of steel itself was added. As this article is devoted especially to the manufacture of iron and steel, no attempt will be made to enumerate all the enterprises at Beaver Falls or elsewhere in Beaver County which merely consume these products, but the most important will be mentioned.

In 1871 the firm of Emerson, Ford & Co. established extensive saw works at Beaver Falls, James E. Emerson being the leading member of the firm, the name of which was afterwards changed to Emerson, Smith & Co. The works are still running. They have always done a large business in the manufacture of circular and other saws.

In 1875 an enterprise was established by Abel, Pedder & Co., at Beaver Falls, styled the Beaver Falls Steel Works. In 1881 these works were purchased by the Harmony Society and operated by it until 1893, under the name of the Beaver Falls Steel Works, when they passed into the hands of James M. May and others, Mr. May being treasurer and general superintendent. For many years these works were very successful and constituted one of the leading industries of Beaver Falls, their products being plow, spring, cutlery, file, and tool steel. On July 1, 1900, the works were absorbed by the Crucible Steel Company of America, and have been idle ever since. At first waterpower was used exclusively.

In 1879 another enterprise was established at Beaver Falls, by J. S. Craft & Co., styled the Beaver Falls Rolling Mill. Its products were at first refined blooms, bars and billets for steelmaking. A new firm soon came into possession and added sheet iron as a leading product. Afterwards, in new hands, the works produced only fine sheet iron. They were burned in 1888 and were not rebuilt.

In 1883 the Hartman Steel Company, Limited, built extensive works at Beaver Falls for the manufacture of merchant steel and wire rods, to which the manufacture of wire nails, fencing wire, steel wire mats, and other steel products was afterwards added. H. W. Hartman was chairman of the company, and R. A. Franks was treasurer. In a few years these works passed into the hands of Andrew Carnegie and his associates, then into the hands of the Consolidated Steel & Wire Company, and then into the hands of the American Steel and Wire Company, their present owners.

In the same year, 1883, H. M. Myers & Co., Limited, built a rolling mill at Beaver Falls for the manufacture of sheet steel to be used by the firm in its shovel, spade, and grain scoop factory at Beaver Falls. These works are still in active operation.

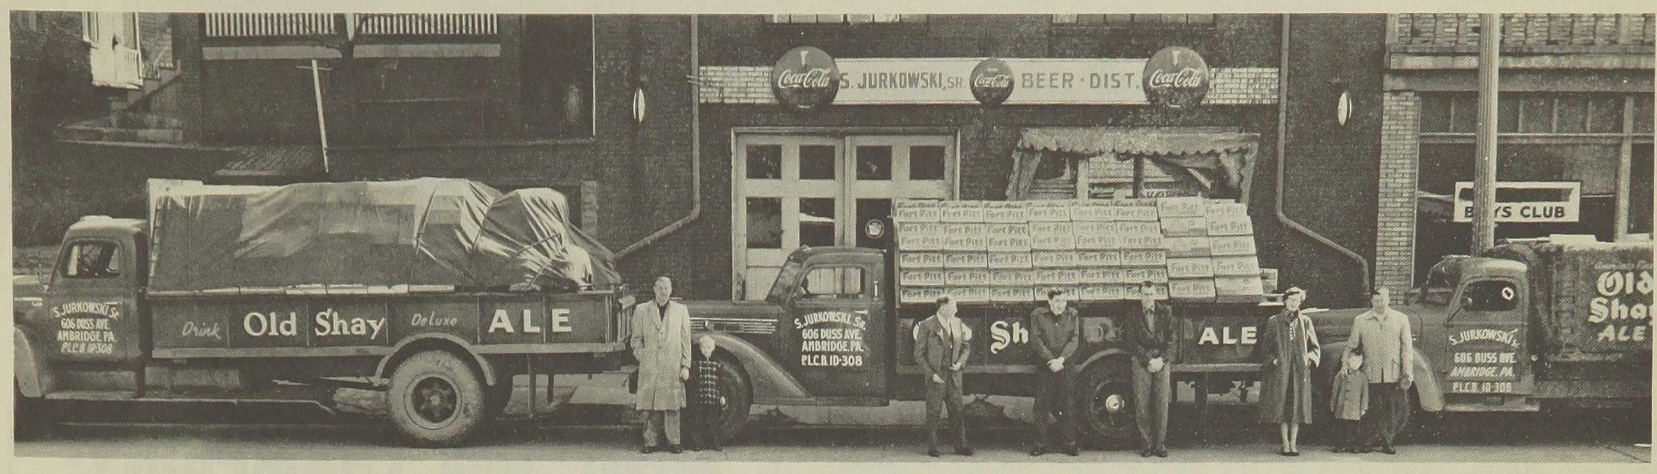

In 1888, the Hartman Manufacturing Company established works at Beaver Falls for the manufacture of "Hartman" steel wire mats and the "Hartman" steel picket fence, both being entirely new products. The plant was removed to Ellwood City, Lawrence County, in 1892, and operated until 1901, when it was removed to New Castle, in the same county.

At Aliquippa, on the Pittsburg & Lake Erie Railroad, in Beaver County, the Aliquippa Steel Company built, in 1892, the Aliquippa Steel Works for the manufacture of open-hearth and crucible steel for conversion into special qualities of plate and sheet steel. These works are now owned and operated by the Crucible Steel Company of America. In the same year the Aliquippa Tinplate Company established works at Aliquippa for the manufacture of tinplates and terneplates. These works have since been abandoned.

AMBRIDGE-ALIQUIPPA BRIDGE COST $1,250,000

The necessity of a bridge between Ambridge and Woodlawn (now Aliquippa) was admitted for many years, but the first concrete effort to provide such a bridge was made in 1915, when a group of citizens from both communities banded together to promote the effort. This group presented a petition in the December term of court in 1916 for the appointment of viewers to inquire into the matter and report to the court.

A bond issue for $1,500,000 was submitted to Beaver County voters and passed on November 4, 1924. In January, 1925, the county commissioners petitioned the court and the Grand Jury for authority to build the bridge, and later that month made application to Congress for the authority to bridge the Ohio.

The Dravo Contracting Company was low bidder and was awarded the contract for four river piers to go to solid rock for a total of $144,000.

The contract for the superstructure was awarded to the American Bridge Company for $337,500, and much of the steel was purchased from Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation. Since the American Bridge Company did the superstructure, bought the steel from J & L, wags at that time said that here was the advantage of building a bridge with one end in a steel plant, the other in a bridge-building yard, and gravel and sand excavated from the river bed, leaving only the cement and paint to be gotten away from the bridge site!

The bridge itself was built at a cost of $609,000, of which the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad paid $39,000 for the portion over its tracks. With the cost of the approaches added, the total reached $1,250,000.

In 1895 the Ohio Sheet & Tinplate Company built works at Remington Station, on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway, in Beaver County, for the manufacture of sheet iron and black plates for tinning. After being operated for several years by the company mentioned, these works passed into the hands of the American Tinplate Company, which has abandoned and dismantled them.

In 1897 the Keystone Axel Company built works at Morado, near Beaver Falls, for the manufacture of circumferentially rolled car axles. These works have recently been purchased by W. A. Crist for himself and others. They were in operation in 1901.

In 1899 the Atlantic Tube Company built works at Grand View Station, near Beaver Falls, on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway, for the manufacture of seamless drawn tubes from steel blanks, also made by the company. Since January 1, 1902, these works have been operated by the Pittsburg Seamless Tube Company. This plant is one of the most complete of its kind in the country. Boiler tubes and hollow shafting are leading specialties.

In 1900 a small experimental plant was built at West Bridgewater, Beaver County, for the manufacture of rolled car axles, but it has never been put in operation.

The New Brighton Steel Company built works in 1900 and 1901 at New Brighton, for the manufacture of crucible tool steel, wire-drawing plates, and steel forgings. J. J. Black is president and general manager of these works.

The bicycle craze led to the establishment between 1890 and 1900 of many works in this county for the manufacture of bicycle tubing. Two of these works were built at Beaver Falls — one the Brown Manufacturing Company and the other the McCool Tube Company.

In 1901 the firm of Kidd Brothers & Burgher Steel Company, since changed to the Vulcan Crucible Steel Company, established works at Aliquippa for the manufacture of tool steel and rolled steel products. These works were successfully started in February, 1902. In their construction the buildings of the abandoned works of the Aliquippa Tinplate Company were utilized.

In 1901 the Colonial Steel Company commenced the erection of extensive steel works at South Monaca, Beaver County, for the manufacture of crucible and open-hearth steel and various rolled steel products. These works have been put in successful operation in 1902. James W. Brown is president of the company.

The Penn Bridge Works, at Beaver Falls, build railroad and highway bridges and erect iron and steel buildings. These works were established in 1868 in New Brighton by T. B. White & Sons.

A few years ago the Berlin Iron Bridge Company, of East Berlin, Connecticut, purchased about 105 acres of land above Economy, in Beaver County, and lying between the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway and the Ohio River, on which it proposed to erect a bridge-building plant. The erection of this plant was commenced, but work upon it was soon suspended. The Berlin Iron Bridge Company was absorbed in June, 1900, by the American Bridge Company. This latter company has now in course of erection on the land above referred to above Economy probably the largest bridge-building plant in the United States. When completed, which will be in the near future, this plant will also embrace a yard for the construction of steel barges.

The manufacture of chains was undertaken at New Brighton a number of years ago, but the works, although projected on a large scale, were not long in operation. The works were located in the building near the present passenger station of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway, which was built for a car works and is now owned by the Pittsburg Wall Paper Company.

The Roberts Manufacturing Company was organized several years ago at Beaver Falls, to make steel link-belting, but the business has been abandoned.

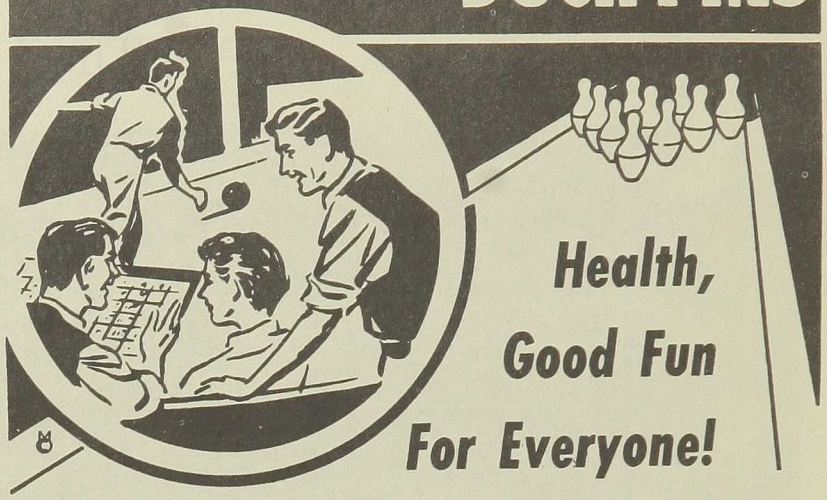

At New Brighton the Standard Horse Nail Company has for several years manufactured machine-made horse nails of all sizes.

About ten years ago the National Separating and Manufacturing Company built a small steel plant at West Bridgewater for the manufacture of light steel castings. Provision was also made for the manufacture of light castings of iron, solder or Babbitt's metal. These works were not successful and were soon abandoned.

The prominence of Beaver County in the manufacture of iron and steel during the last quarter of the nineteenth century and at the present time, has been largely due to the development within its borders of an ample supply of natural gas. Beaver Falls, its leading iron and steel manufacturing town, is located less than thirty miles from Pittsburg. (EDITOR'S NOTE: Remember that this article was written in 1904!)

The history of the iron & steel industry in the Valley from 1904 to the present is reported in individual reports throughout this book.

BEAVER COUNTY HISTORY

Beaver County, 441 square miles in Southwestern Pennsylvania was erected in 1800 out of part of Allegheny and Washington counties.

It was named for the Beaver river, a translation of an Indian name for the stream. This indicates the prevalence of beavers in its early days when the pelts of these fur bearers were largely used by the Indians for barter with white traders. Beaver river, Beaver Creek and Beaver Falls are also named in honor of the little animal.

In 1754 a French post was erected at Logstown, an important Indian and traders' town. The English built Fort McIntosh in 1778, and General Anthony Wayne established one of the first of the nation's "training camps" at Legionville, outside of Ambridge. The camp was run from November, 1792, until April, 1793, and an army was drilled and outfitted to march into the Ohio country, where the Indians were conquered at the Battle of Fallen Timers in 1794.

Because of its proximity to the "forks of the Ohio" where the Allegheny and the Monongahela rivers meet at what is now Pittsburgh, and the importance of the Beaver river waterway itself, transportation from the county became a lively enterprise. Shipping from growing Pittsburgh passed in to the Ohio river and out of the State at the western boundary of Beaver county. The ease of waterway communication and transportation have always been important factors in the development of Beaver county.

As an important industrial center north and west of Pittsburgh the county has enjoyed industrial progress and increasing population.

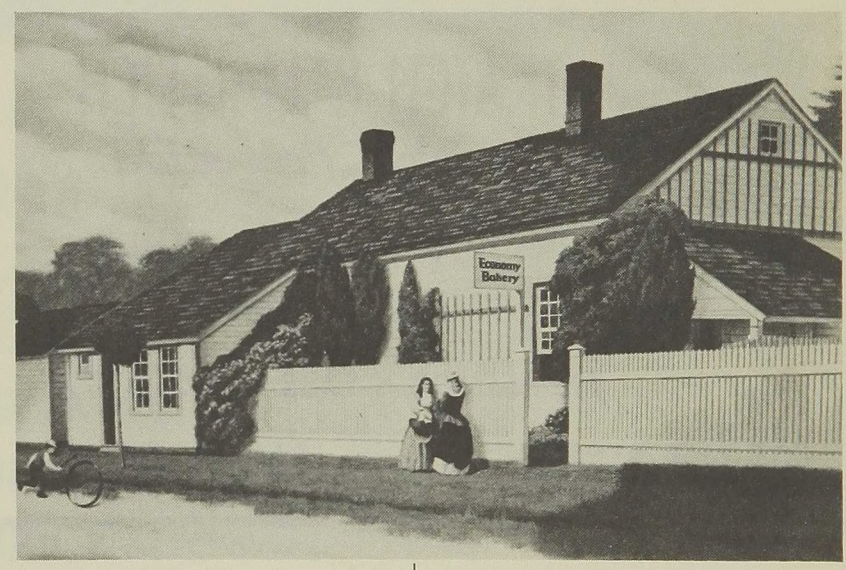

In the Ohio river basin and tributary streams the lands naturally are fertile and are known as "river bottom lands." Only a small portion of the county is unsuitable for agriculture.

Industry and agriculture combine to provide activity and prosperity. Nearly all the major agricultural crops are produced. Sandstone quarries provide building stone for bridges and structures. Bituminous coal, clay and shale provide the raw materials for brick making. Crushed stone sand and gravel are known far and wide for their qualities and are in great demand.

Metal and metal products comprise bridge steel, pipes, tubing, pig iron, tin, iron and steel bars and sheets.

During the Second World War the production of styrene and butadiene, basic elements of synthetic rubber, at a large plant in the newly established town of Kobuta contributed much to the war effort. This was one of the largest and one of the first of such plants.

Economy, an early experiment in communal living and industry during the 19th Century. Here in 1825 under the leadership of Father Rapp, the Harmony Society erected its third and last home. The first had been set up in 1804 at Harmony, Pa., and the second in the state of Indiana.

The experiment near Ambridge was the most successful of all since the agricultural and industrial products of the colony found ready sale in Pittsburgh. The colony for many years played an important part in the industrial life and development of western Pennsylvania, and at one time its assets were valued at a million dollars—a lot of money in those days.

Celibacy was adopted, and this, combined with unwise investments, excessive generosity, and a certain loss of initiative when the colony chose to support itself on the returns from investments rather than through the income of its own labors, led to decline and eventual disappearance. After much litigation the Commonwealth received title to the heart of the communal colony. Restoration of the original buildings, including the Great House of 45 rooms, is under way and Old Economy will be preserved because of its unique historical significance.

THE BATTLE OF LOGSTOWN

LOGSTOWN was an ancient Indian village described in 1749 by a French officer as "one of the largest villages on the river, consisting of fifty cabins of Iroquois, Shawanese and Loups; also Iroquois from the Sault St. Louis and the Lake of the Two Mountains, with some Nippissinques, Abenakis, and Ottawas."

Conrad Weiser, famous Indian interpreter, was sent to make a count of the fighting men in 1748 and he numbered them this way: Senecas, 163; Shawanese, 162; Owandats, 100; Tisagechroan, 40; Mohawks, 74; Mohicans, 15; Onondagas, 35; Cayugas, 20; Oneidas, 15; Delawares, 165—a total of 789 braves along the banks of the Ohio.

The battle of Logstown was—and is—fought, not with bows and arrows and muskets, but with pen and ink and typewriters. It is fought, not by frontiersmen, but by historians. They fight, not over territory, but where the territory was. Some say Logstown was on the east bank of the Ohio near or at Legionville, others say it was on the west bank, in Aliquippa.

CITIZEN HEADLINE IN 1910: "Ambridge has reached the point in postoffice receipts that makes it eligible for free mail delivery. Council has already directed an ordinance to be drafted covering the numbering of the houses."

The Navy Yard at the American Bridge plant in Ambridge employed some 12,500 people at the peak of operations in World War II. Sixty-four acres of marshland were filled in and 23 large buildings were erected in nine months. The yard contributed many LST's (Landing Ship—Tank) to the successful war effort.

The Frank R. Phillips Power Generating plant in South Heights was constructed in 1941 by the Duquesne Light Company at a cost of about $8,000,000. It is located twenty feet above the March 1936 flood level on 50 acres of ground, and has a possible capacity of 350,000 horsepower.

The heaviest snowfall in the history of the Ambridge district fell on November 24, 25 and 26 in 1950. It is estimated that 31 inches fell during that period, accurate measurement being impossible due to the high winds. On Saturday, November 26, when the fall finally ceased, stores were closed and transportation was paralyzed. It was ten days before conditions were restored to normal in Ambridge, Pittsburgh and other communities over a wide area.

DISTRICT 20, UNITED STEEL WORKERS OF AMERICA, IS NATIONAL LEADER

"As goes steel, so goes the nation."

The national economic barometer rests in the hands of District 20, United Steel Workers of America, of which Bert Hough is director, for here, in the upper Ohio Valley, is the greatest concentration of diversified steel industry in the nation.

In the American Bridge at Ambridge there is United States Steel; in Spang-Chalfant there is National Supply; in Letsdale there is Bethlehem Steel; in Aliquippa, Jones & Laughlin; in Midland, Crucible Steel; in Beaver Falls, Republic is represented by Union Drawn Steel; and one of the world's greatest makers of steamship boilers is Babcock & Wilcox, in Beaver Falls.

The policies of every major steel producer in the nation are therefore represented in this district.

Today the jurisdiction of the District steelworkers covers virtually all of the steelworkers in northern Allegheny County, all of Beaver County in Pennsylvania, and eastern Columbia County in Ohio. The patterns established by the Steelworkers' Union in wages and conditions of work set the pattern for the rest of the industries in the area.

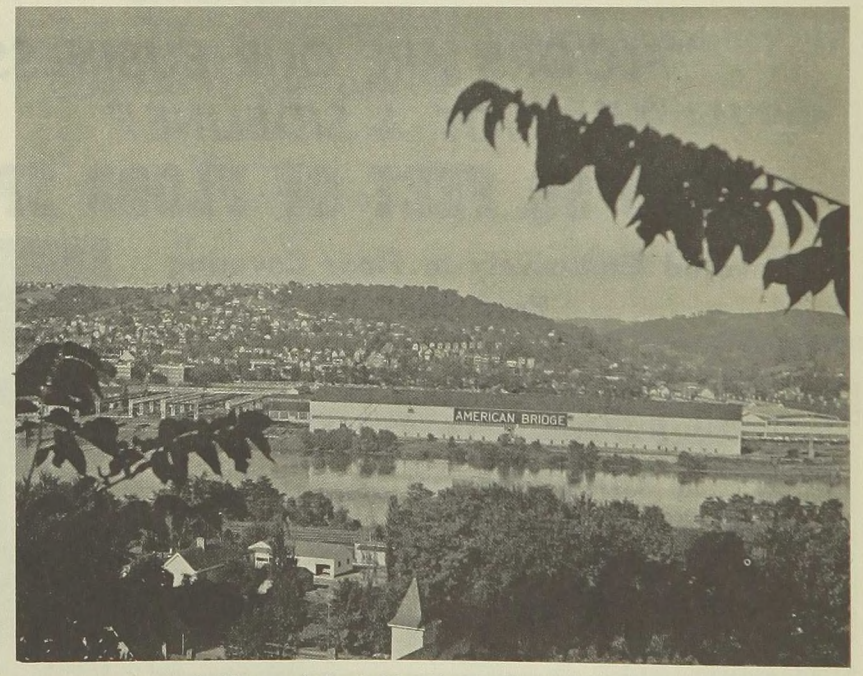

The United Steel Workers of America, District No. 20, began in the summer of 1936 as the Beaver Valley sub-region of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee under the leadership of Joseph J. Timko. Organization of the valley's steelworkers progressed rapidly.

One of the earliest charters granted by the SWOC was given to the employees of the Pittsburgh Tube Company of Monaca, Local Union No. 1002.

The sub-region was divided into five areas: Ambridge, Aliquippa, Rochester-Monaca, Beaver Falls-New Brighton, and Midland. During the early organizing campaigns, Butler and Weirton, West Virginia, were occasionally included in the jurisdiction of the sub-region.

Early in the history of the district the policy of training steel mill rank-and-file leaders for top executive and administrative jobs in the district was formulated. Today almost all of the top posts in the area are staffed by local personnel.

In the autumn of 1936 a Midland Crucible motor inspector who spoke with a thick Scotch brogue was appointed president of the newly-formed local union of nine members there. He was asked to assist in the organizing of other plants in Midland and Beaver Falls in addition to completing the task of organizing his own 4,000 fellow employees.

A View of Ambridge from South Heights

How well he succeeded is tersely expressed in a bronze plaque over the doors of the Crucible Local No. 1212 three-hundred-thousand-dollar home: "Local Union No. 1212's first president, Midland's first staff representative, and District No. 20's first director—Bert Hough."

The Union's first "union shop" agreement for a major integrated producer was signed with the Crucible Steel Company, the union being represented by this motor inspector of fourteen years before, now director of the Union's District No. 20 and chief of Union Negotiating Committee for all of the Crucible plants.

AMBRIDGE IN 1904

Rev. Joseph H. Bausman, A.M., noted historian of Beaver County, wrote, in his "History of Beaver County," published in 1904, the following:

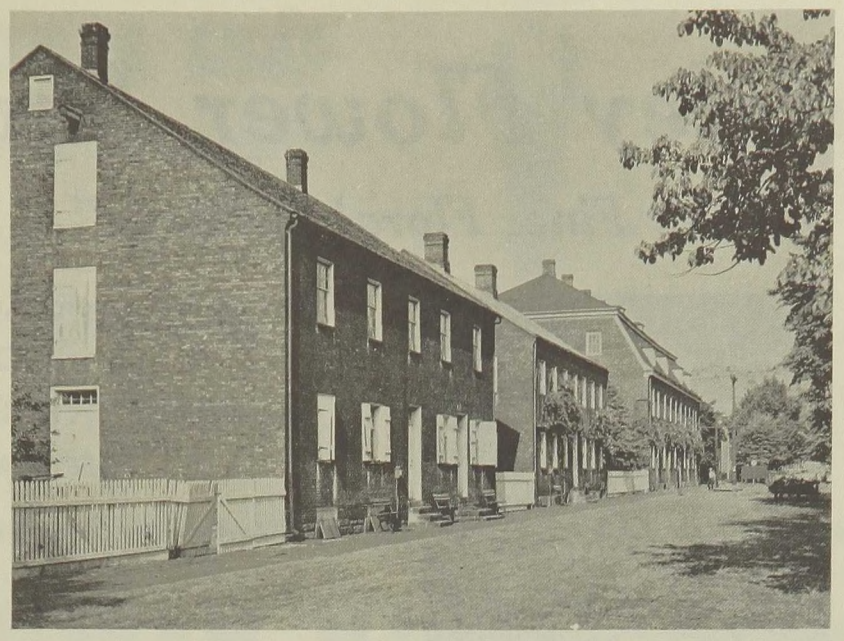

"The American Bridge Company. —Nearly midway between Economy and Fair Oaks on the Ohio River and the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railroad and in Harmony Township, the American Bridge Company is now (1903-04) building an immense plant and a town named Ambridge, which name will be recognized as derived from the company style. There will be manufactured here finished iron and steel products of many sorts, and it is promised that the plant will be the largest of its kind in the world.

"Work on the plant is already well under way. A site of 105 acres between the railroad tracks and the Ohio River, almost a mile long, has been reserved for the works. There will be a total of fourteen principal structures. The main shop at about the center will be 270 x 800 feet. The auxiliary bridge shop, 180 x 600; the machine shop and iron foundry, each 110 x 360; the steel foundry, slightly larger, three buildings each 220 x 240 and two 80 x 512, give an idea of the extent of the plans of the company.

"Twenty-five thousand tons of finished product every four weeks will be the output. Between 3500 and 4000 skilled workmen will be employed, and the payroll will average $250,000 a month. One of the principal new products is to be steel barges and transfer boats, strong enough to withstand the storms of the Gulf Stream, and of light enough draught to invade the Mississippi and the inland rivers for coal, oil, or any other heavy freight. Already one of these immense barges is completed at the forge shop and ready for launching.

"The work of grading and sewering the streets of the new town is actively begun, and a model industrial town bids fair to be soon created."

Though the half century has made many changes—especially in the amount of the monthly payroll —the Reverend Bausman had his facts correct, and the promise mentioned in the first paragraph has been kept by the American Bridge Company, for the Ambridge plant is the largest fabricated steel plant in the world!

In Old Economy—Facing the square behind the "Great House" were (1) Store and Post Office; (2) Tailor and Shoe Shop; and (3) The Feast Hall.

HARMONY SCHOOL SYSTEM

The Harmony Society school system existed in a formal manner from 1807 to 1905, when it was finally disbanded.

The system was inaugurated in 1907 in Harmony, Pa., with Doctor Christoff Mueller teaching reading, writing, mathematics and geography to the children of the Harmonists and to those apprenticed to the Society.

At Harmony, Indiana, the curriculum of the school was widened, and night classes were held in certain subjects. This system was carried into the Economy school in 1825, and was outstanding for its day.

Included were mathematics, which was subdivided into arithmetic and business practice arithmetic, chemistry, geography, history and music. Astronomy was taught to selected students, and the "College of Harmony, Harmony, Indiana," purchased the finest telescope and traveling crane made at the time by a London firm.

Classes were taught on the spot in farming. Grafting, pruning, and general plant husbandry gave the young Harmonites a background that enabled them to amaze the country with their prolific farms in later year.

Music was taught in classes where students were permitted to compose their own selections and these were played by the local band if were found to be of quality. Harpsichords, pianos, clavichords, drums, harps, violins, flutes and jubal horns were common in the society.

The Harmony Society introduced many ideas into their educational system that later became integrated into higher educational systems. In 1829, for example, the society introduced visual education with the purchase of a magic lantern and a great number of glass slides.

Another contribution in 1829 was the purchase of a complete museum, which was the first commercial museum west of Philadelphia. Located in the present Music Hall of Old Economy, it was used for instruction purposes until 1853, when it was given to the Western University of Pennsylvania, now known as the University of Pittsburgh.

AMBRIDGE WATER PLANT TO HAVE CAPACITY OF 5,000,000 GALLONS DAILY

The new water plant of the Ambridge Water Authority will have a nominal capacity of 5,000,000 gallons of water a day, with a peak load capacity of 6,000,000; the new reservoir will cover approximately 275 acres and will impound about two billion gallons, and will be able to provide eight million gallons of water per day in the driest of years.

This is a far cry from the days when the Ambridge areas was served by two water companies, the Harmony Water Company, chartered May 28, 1902, and the Ambridge Water Company, chartered January 13, 1903. These two companies continued operation until 1909, when the Harmony Water Co. bought out the other.

Ambridge Borough bought the works in 1913, and operated it under a commission until 1937, when it was switched to a committee of council. In 1950 Council decided to form the Water Authority because of the limited borrowing power defined by the Pennsylvania constitution.

The transition of the types of operation of the water supply in Ambridge is due to the tremendous growth of this locality, and the steadily increasing demands made upon the water system. Originally, all the water needed was pumped from wells along the Ohio River, but both the quality and the supply failed to keep pace with the community's progress. The new water system will be supplied from the reservoir along Service Creek.

The Stewarts' and their employees want to thank the people of Ambridge and the community for a long and successful business career.

For twenty-eight years, quality goods and an appreciative community have helped us to develop a service store and a business of which we are justly proud.

In the future, as always in the past, we will try to offer progressive service through careful selection and honest merchandising of the best possible goods, at the most reasonable price.

TO INSULATE PLIERS, for electrical work, use an ordinary piece of garden hose. Cut hose desired length and force over handles of the pliers. Rubber handles also provide an excellent grip.

EXTENT OF REPAIRS FOR HOME REPAIRMAN. Minor jobs to the electrical system, such as repairing bells, replacing fuses or repairing appliance cords, may be undertaken by the home repairman. Major jobs that disturb permanent wirings, or making extensions, should be done by an experienced electrician.

HATS—CUSTOM MADE
Hat Cleaning & Repairs

Fine Custom-Made Hats . . .

MANUFACTURED IN AMBRIDGE BY ESQUIRE HAT SHOP

The scientific methods and modern equipment used in the New Esquire Hat Shop enable us to produce a custom-made hat at prices no higher than superior ready-to-wear hats. Photo at right shows some of the special machinery used for shaping, banding and sewing Esquire hats.

CUSTOM HAT MAKING

The finishing processes shown here are used both in the custom hat department and in revitalizing hats after they are cleaned by the exclusive Esquire method which has won acclaim throughout the Valley.

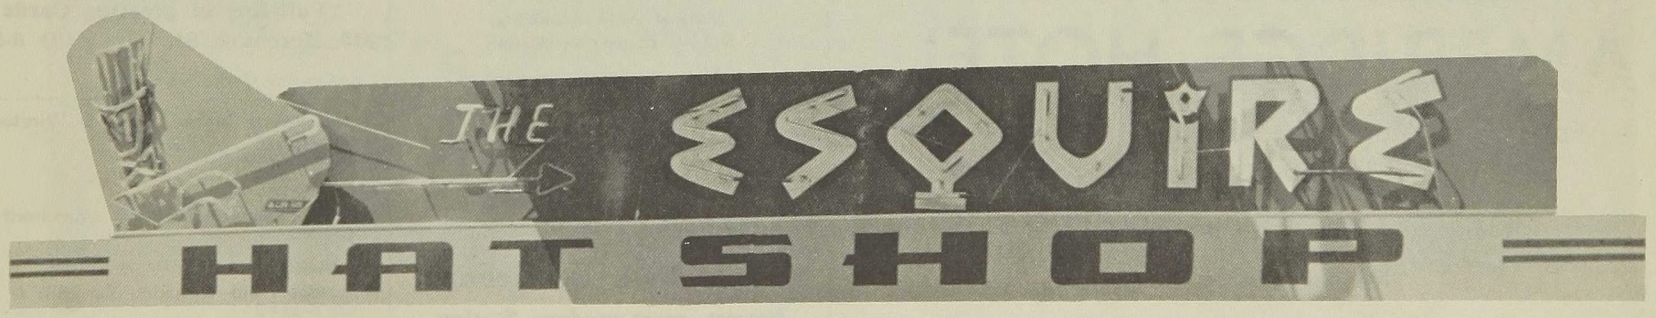

HAT CLEANING

Don't throw away that old hat!

THE ESQUIRE CLEANING PROCESS CAN MAKE ANY QUALITY HAT, REGARDLESS OF AGE, LOOK LIKE NEW.

The first telephone system was installed in Aliquippa in 1908.

Joe Perricelli is credited with the longest run ever made by an Ambridge High School back. Joe intercepted a pass behind his own goal line and raced 103 yards for a touchdown that beat Beaver Falls 6-0 in a post season game at the Ambridge High field in 1930. Both teams had entered the clash unbeaten.

FIRST STREET CARS IN 1906

At 10 a.m. on January 1, 1906, the first street car left Economy and made the trip to the Allegheny County line, a distance of about two miles.

The French Point Street Railway Company has two cars running on Merchant street, with a temporary power plant in the old laundry building in Economy. Using the old boilers and engines in the laundry, it was necessary only to install generators and other electrical machinery, and the trolleys ran!

Tracks were laid between Economy and Baden, tieing in with the Beavery Valley Traction lines, which operated to that point from Beaver. Legionville Hollow was spanned by a steel viaduct, nearly 1,000 feet long and seventy feet high, erected by the American Bridge Company. The first car crossed on Aug. 1, 1907.

The route of the first street car line in Ambridge was from old French Point to Fourth street, then to Maplewood avenue, to First street, and then looped back to Merchant street.

THE GOLDEN ROSE OF HARMONY BLOOMS AGAIN IN OLD ECONOMY

In the 1800's the trade mark of the Harmony Society was the Golden Rose, and its imprint on goods made in Economy, Pa., represented the finest in materials and workmanship. The silks, woolens, cutlery, pottery, wines, leather goods and other items used in the Nineteenth Century were in great demand when they bore the trademark of the Golden Rose.

Today the Golden Rose is being used as a trademark of goods made in Old Economy, Pa., even though the Economites disappeared from the scene at the beginning of the 20th Century and with them went the hand-wrought masterpieces that had brought them fame.

The recent rebirth of the trademark is due to the efforts of two men. Richard Wilson, of Baden, state secretary of the Help Employ Local People Association, was the first to visualize using the shops of the Economites for the rehabilitation of aged and handicapped workers in this area. He proposed the matter to Lawrence Thurman, curator of the state historic spot, and Thurman secured the approval of the Commission.

The purpose of the project is really threefold: 1, to give employment to the handicapped, so that they may earn something for themselves and have a feeling of accomplishment; 2, to keep the ancient tools sharp and shops and equipment in good condition; and 3, to afford visitors an idea how such shops looked during the middle of the past century, and how the tools were used.

The project is just beginning, but there are items that can be purchased now that are of unusual quality and are offered at fair prices, and any investment made at the Old Economy shops will serve not only to provide a worthwhile souvenir, but will also encourage the workers and reacquaint the world with the ancient symbol of quality, the Golden Rose.

• HEADLINES •

HEADLINES IN 1926: A 25-pound sack of sugar, $1.49; butter, 5¢ a pound: three dozen eggs, $1.05; two pounds of hamburger, 25¢.

THE FOURTH ESTATE: This title for the press was first applied by the great English statesman, Edmund Burke, in the Eighteenth Century. At that time in Old England the "First Estate" composed the nobles; the "Second" the clergy; and the "Third Estate" referred to the Commons. Burke, in referring to the reporters' gallery in the halls of Parliament, said: "Yonder sits the Fourth Estate, more important than them all."

HEADLINE IN 1909: "A horse belonging to Dravonick Bros., the produce men, took sick Monday and got down on the street in front of their store. It was finally hauled away and is all right now."

A story in the June 6, 1924, issue of the Citizen told the tale of the Big Sewickley Creek bridge between Ambridge and Fair Oaks taking longer to build than did the Panama Canal! The article read in part:

"This bridge, not over 200 feet in length, has taken longer to complete than did the building of the Panama Canal and has cost enough to erect a bridge across the Ohio River."

Weather conditions, flood waters and other incidents delayed the building and increased the cost, but the gist of the story was that neither Allegheny nor Beaver County wanted to pay for the bridge, and the street car company disclaimed any responsibility for costs incident to moving their tracks on the new bridge!

AMERICAN BRIDGE COMPANY PLANT LARGEST IN WORLD

The Ambridge plant of the American Bridge Company was erected in 1903, the largest structural steel fabricating plant in the world, and it still retains that distinction!

For more than half a century American Bridge and Ambridge have grown together. From the very beginning their destiny was a common one, the name "Ambridge" being given to the new town on the south side of Economy and finally absorbing that historic borough so that today the Borough of Ambridge is the third largest in Beaver County. The bridge company brought many new industries to this area to supplement their massive facilities, for American Bridge has produced some of the world's largest structures.

The first steel was fabricated at the Ambridge plant in 1904, and since that time millions of tons of orange colored steel have been shipped out. The story of American Bridge really began on April 1, 1901, when American Bridge became a United States Steel subsidiary. It became a division of U. S. Steel Corporation on January 1, 1953, and its experience in building some of the largest bridges and highest skyscrapers dates back to the turn of the century.

Today this division has the world's largest fabricating plant at Ambridge, and other plants at Gary, Indiana, Elmira, N. Y., Trenton, N. J., Minneapolis, Minn., Roanoke, Va., Birmingham, Ala., Memphis, Tenn. and Pittsburgh, Pa.

American Bridge actually builds more than big bridges and tall buildings. Some of the other products of its workmen are subway structures, electric steel-melting furnaces, barges, turntables, transmission towers, tanks, underframes for Diesel locomotives, ore docks and many specialties designed to meet customer requirements.

Employees of this U. S. Steel division perhaps have had more to do with the country's changing skyline than any other single group of people. It might even be said that the more than 4,000 employees in Ambridge have contributed a great deal to making America a better place in which to live.

Some of the buildings and bridges in whose fabrication and erection the Ambridge plant has played a part are the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, Empire State Building, Rockefeller Center, United Nations Headquarters, the Gateway Center in Pittsburgh, the Alcoa Building and the U. S. Steel-Mellon Building.

American Bridge has also fabricated and erected steel structures in many foreign countries such as Africa, China, Japan, Ireland and South America.

During World War II, American Bridge was called upon by the Navy to build LST's, the landing ships which the allied forces used to land tanks and soldiers on beaches. In 1942 the U. S. Steel division built a 64-acre shipyard in Ambridge, and during its life, 119 LST's, four aircraft repair vessels, and twenty lighters were turned out in the company's largest single defense effort.

To be able to perform such gigantic tasks, American Bridge occupies an area of 140 acres, 16 acres of which are utilized as a park. The plant has over twenty principal buildings, shops and work areas in Ambridge.

Some of the recent work done at the Ambridge plant includes the fabrication of 72 bridges for the 90-mile West Virginia Turnpike; bridges for superhighways in New York and Ohio; and included in the New York Turnpike job is the fabrication of the heaviest cantilever bridge in the world, which will span the Hudson River near New York City.

Still another "biggest" is the world's largest electric furnaces for McLouth Steel Company in Detroit. These furnaces have a capacity of 200 tons.

The story of American Bridge can best be closed at this time by a report on the Mackinac Straits Bridge. Ambridge workmen can well be proud of their part in fabricating the steel for this bridge, for it will be the biggest single suspension bridge in the world when measured from anchorage to anchorage, measuring almost 2,000 feet longer than the Golden Gate Bridge in California!

LEGIONVILLE WAS ARMY TRAINING CENTER

The importance of Legionville rests entirely with the past, for it was on this site, during the winter of 1792-93, that "Mad Anthony" Wayne's army, known as "The Legion of The United States," trained for the successful fight with the Indians that was to clear this area of the fighting Redmen.

Located on the banks of the Ohio at the extreme northwestern part of Harmony township, Legionville was given its name after the title of Wayne's army. Here Wayne went into winter quarters, and was engaged until the following spring in disciplining the force which won for him the brilliant and epoch-making victory over the Indians of the Miami Confederation in the Battle of Fallen Timbers on August 20, 1794.

Of this location General Wayne himself wrote, in a letter to General Knox, dated, "Pittsburg, Nov. 14, 1792":

". . . I have made choice of an encampment on the bank of the river (from which all the Indians in the wilderness could not Dislodge us) with a fine level creek on the right flank which forms a secure harbour for our boats & an easy water communication (provided we have water in the river) in fact it is the only spot in which the boats could possible be secured from inevitable destruction by the ice for a considerable distance above Pittsburg to that place, not a boat cou'd be saved at Pittsburg or in its vicinity, such an idea was never contemplated at this place, the construction of the Kentucky boats being only calculated for the purpose of descending the river the same season they are built, & after the landing the families, sent adrift; those of the army are broke up for the use of the fort & Garrison so that this may be considered as the first attempt that has been made to save or secure one of those kind of boats over winter, in order to be used the next season.

"This we shall effect but with a good deal of labour & some expense in repairing them, however this sha'l be done & everything in readiness to descend the Ohio at an early period in the spring, by which time I most ardently hope the Legion will be compleated to its full compliment. . . ."

The General's spelling doesn't agree with all the rules, but his training methods were the most effective found in the baby U. S. Army up to that time. When President Washington sent him to the "West" to secure peace for the settlers along the Ohio, the Army had a very bad reputation as Indian Fighters, as all too often a small band of braves had scattered large bodies of troops. Wayne changed that by his training methods at Legionville. The troops worked so hard on "dry runs" that it was a relief for them to engage the redskins in actual combat!

The greatest flood in the history of this area inundated one-seventeenth of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania on March 17, 18 and 19, 1936. Damage in the state was estimated at $212,535,010.

An example of the quality and beauty of the Harmonites craftsmanship is the clock in the steeple of St. John's Lutheran Church, the original price of which is said to have been $700. It was called the "Town Clock" until 1928, but it still continues to chime out each quarter hour.

BADEN BOROUGH

The Borough of Baden, named after the city of Germany, lies on the Ohio River about two miles from Ambridge and about five miles South of Rochester. It is served by the Pennsylvania Railroad and Pa. Route 88 goes through the center of town.

The village was surveyed on May 17, 1838, and the plot recorded April 20, 1839, by Christian Burckhardt, the proprietor, showing a division into 104 lots. It was incorporated as a borough on April 1, 1868. The Post Office at Baden was established in April of 1852.

The population in 1900 was 427; in 1950 it was 3,732, and it is anticipated that this figure will be doubled by 1960 due to the building boom taking place in Baden at the present time (1955) when entire new sections are being added to the Borough, including new streets, lights, sewers, water mains, etc.

CONWAY BOROUGH

Conway is noted for two reasons, both of them big ones.

The first is the "Conway Yards" of the Pennsylvania Railroad, the largest of its kind in the world.

In these yards, which lay between the Ohio River and Pa. Route 88, the railroad "classifies" the thousands of freight cars which are routed through the Pittsburgh area. On a maze of tracks the cars are "humped" over an incline, and, one by one, they are guided by dispatchers and switchmen to the track where a train is being made up for Chicago, Philadelphia or to some other of the hundreds of destinations. Floodlights light up the yards at night, and the work goes on 24 hours a day.

The second "big" project in Conway is the "Northern Lights" Shopping Center, scheduled to be completed and dedicated in the fall of 1956. Located on the Ohio River Boulevard (Pa. Route 88), this shopping center will be one of the largest and most modern in the world, and will doubtlessly draw many thousands of shoppers and visitors to the Valley, making it more than ever one of the greatest sections of merchandising in the country.

ECONOMY TOWNSHIP

Economy Township, named after the once prosperous settlement of the Harmonites which was on the present site of Ambridge, was formed during the April session at the Beaver County Court House in 1827.

The township is bounded on the East by Butler and Allegheny counties, on the south by Allegheny County and Harmony Township, on the West by the Ohio River and Harmony Township, and on the North by New Sewickley Township. It is in the Southeast corner of Beaver County.

At one time Economy Township included Baden and Conway, but on April 3, 1851, Harmony Township was erected by an Act of Legislature. Conway borough, formerly "Agnew," was incorporated on June 3, 1902.

The beginning of Economy Township was in the arrival of Frances Cottom and James Musgrave from England. Together they purchased almost all the land which now makes up the township.

After the formation of the township, other settlers began to arrive, among them one Henry Gross, who had a college education and did some legal work for the settlers. Besides his farming, Gross had a general store at the crossroads. Because he kept calves that he bought at the store before taking them to Pittsburgh, the German settlers called the place Muckletown, "muckle" being the German word for "calves."

Gross was the first postmaster of the post office located in his store, and was later succeeded by Edward Gross. Between them they kept the post office for 50 years. It was finally closed in 1903.

The early settlers were chiefly engaged in farming, raising grain, fruit, cattle and sheep. What they didn't use themselves they bartered for articles of clothing, machinery, and other supplies.

At the turn of the century, Wallace City, situated at the intersection of routes 989 and 898 in New Sewickley township, became the center of a booming oil industry. Overnight oil wells sprouted up in both Economy and New Sewickley townships, and one on the Wallace farm gushed 1400 barrels of oil a day, much of which flowed into Crow's Run and then into the Ohio River. One enterprising farmer closed off the pond on this farm after the oil had flowed into it, skimmed off the oil and sold it.

Derricks were erected from the Knob in New Sewickley Township to the Pfaff farm in Economy Township, making the field about six miles long and two miles wide. The peak production was about 45,000 barrels a day.

The Wallrose Mutual Insurance Company was formed in 1873 to protect the local people against losses by fire, lightning, storms, etc. The first meeting was held out of doors, and later an $8,000 building was erected to house the organization. The present building is located on R. D. 1. The company covers a radius of twelve miles, and the total assets are close to $100,000.

While Gross had the first post office, established in 1843, there have been several other post offices in the township. A second one was at Wallrose, established in 1863. This service is now provided by rural delivery service from Sewickley.

The first school in Economy Township was a one-room building wherein the children were taught both German and English in addition to other subjects. The present school was completed in January, 1937, and has six grades. The seventh and eighth graders go to the Conway school; the high school pupils go to Ambridge.

Mount Gallitzin Academy, a boarding school for boys and a high school for girls, is also located in the Township. Named for Prince Gallitzin, a Russian priest who gave up his title and wealth to work among the early settlers and the Indians, the school is conducted by the Sisters of St. Joseph, and recently completed a beautiful new addition to its campus along the Ohio River Boulevard.

The Economy Township Fire Department was organized in February, 1943, and granted a charter in September, 1944. Money was raised for a firehouse 45 feet by 80 feet, but shortly after its completion it and all of its contents, valued at $35,000, were destroyed by fire. A new and improved building was quickly financed and built.

The population in 1900 was 1,602; in 1950 it was 2,905; the real estate value in 1900 was $542,889; in 1950 it was $1,549,715; taxpayers in 1900 numbered 383; in 1950 it was 1,871.

CITIZEN HEADLINE IN 1907: Baden Borough Official. Ordinance No. 39—"No motor vehicle whether propelled by steam, gas or electricity shall be operated or drawn on any public street or lane or alley within the Borough of Baden at a greater speed than ten miles per hour or on State St., at a greater speed than eight miles per hour."

TAYLORCRAFT THIRD LARGEST PLANE PRODUCER

Taylorcraft, Inc., located the Conway-Pittsburgh Airport, is the world's third largest producer of airplanes selling for under $10,000.

Founded in 1936 by C. G. Taylor, "father of the light airplane industry", the company is now producing four passenger planes of Aerolite, which is similar to the reinforced fiberglass plastic material which have been found much stronger for its weight than most aircraft metals.

Farmers, businessmen, flying schools, pipe line patrol companies and sportsmen have found the Taylorcraft to be one of the most reliable airplanes ever built.

BOROUGH OF ALIQUIPPA, PA.

Aliquippa, the largest community in Beaver County and the second largest borough in Pennsylvania, is the phenomenonal type of town that springs up every once in a while in these United States.

In 1900 the borough of Aliquippa had a population of but 620, and at the opposite end of a trestle on the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad was the village of Woodlawn, which had even a smaller population. According to Beaver County historian Bausman, Woodlawn was "a beautiful little village situated on the south bank of the Ohio River and on the line of the P. & L. E. R. R., whose station is also called Woodlawn. The small population of the village, and that of the surrounding country is composed of the best elements of Beaver County's yeomanry. From the earliest times an interest in education, religious and secular, has been taken here, a Sabbath-School having been organized as early as 1810."

Aliquippa took its name from a Seneca Indian queen who at one time lived on or not far from its site. In 1753 she was living at the mouth of the Youghiogany River, and was visited there in that year by George Washington. In his journal Washington wrote:

"I went up about three miles to the mouth of the Youghiogany, to visit Queen Aliquippa, who had expressed great concern that we passed her in going to the fort. I made her a present of a watchcoat (a kind of waterproof overcoat or cloak) and a bottle of rum, which latter was thought much the better present of the two."

Chartiers Creek, which empties into the Ohio some miles above this place, was known in the early days as Aliquippa's Creek.

The fusion of Aliquippa and Woodlawn into the great Aliquippa that we see today took many years. The village of Aliquippa was incorporated as a borough on January 22, 1894; Woodlawn became a borough on December 5, 1907. Woodlawn had a Post Office in 1877; Aliquippa got its Post Office in 1892. Woodlawn's public school system started in 1909 with seven teachers and 225 pupils; the first class from Woodlawn High School graduated in 1913; the Woodlawn Volunteer Fire Department was organized in 1909; the Woodlawn & Southern street car lines started running to Aliquippa and various sections of the town in 1912.

There was a natural rivalry between Aliquippa and Woodlawn that could have kept them separate political entities for all time. Aliquippa was a "mill town," with the advent of the Vulcan Crucible Steel Company in 1900, and the Kidd Drawn Steel Company in 1901, while Woodlawn built up its shopping center, and attracted the money that the men earned in Aliquippa. But in 1905 there came an event that changed the destiny of both Aliquippa and Woodlawn, and made it inevitable that they join into one great community.

In 1846 a man of barely 21, Benjamin Franklin Jones, had started a company in Pittsburgh, and in 1857 he joined with a man named Laughlin to form the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company. By the turn of the century "J & L" was a great name in steel, and they were looking for a location that would enable them to build one of the largest steel plants in the world. Pioneers in the use of waterways to bring in raw materials and take out the finished products, J & L found what they wanted on the Ohio River, some five miles in length, that spanned both Aliquippa and Woodlawn. The land was purchased in 1905, and the consruction of a blast furnace began in 1907. Thereafter the "Aliquippa Works" was in operation.

From 1909 to 1916 the Aliquippa Works grew steadily. Four new blast furnaces were built, and tinplate, rod, wire, nail and blooming mills were added, along with open hearth furnaces, bessemer converters, coke ovens, skelp mills and tube mills.

There was a tremendous influx of labor during these years, and as a natural consequence there were growing pains as the two small boroughs were crowded until they almost burst at the seams. In 1919 the Volstead Act became law, and to try to keep spirits away from so many of the men who had been accustomed to it since childhood was a task to try a Hercules, let alone Prohibition Enforcement Agents who looked like pigmies alongside the husky steel workers.

The situation is capsulized in the October 24 and 31, 1924, issues of "The Woodlawn Gazette;" which told the story under the caption "Our Police Department".

"Woodlawn is most naturally proud of its police department, upon which it depends for the safety and welfare of its citizens and their property. When the Woodlawn Police Department was organized in 1918, there was an average of three to four murders each week in this city, with holdups; cutting affrays; shooting, fighting and disorders of all kinds every night, but since the police department was organized with M. J. Kane as Chief of Police, the department has attained a reputation of which every member as well as citizens of Woodlawn, may well be proud."

The inevitable consolidation took place on January 31, 1928, by majority vote of both towns, and Aliquippa Borough was born. Woodlawn's name is preserved in many ways, such as in the title of companies like the Woodlawn Trust Company, while the old borough of Aliquippa is now a section as the city known as "West Aliquippa."

Now the growing pains are over for Aliquippa, and the city and the Works are growing and improving. Labor and Management work hand in hand for the betterment of Aliquippa and living conditions for its residents; many of the workers own their own homes on the beautiful hills in and around the Borough. The B. F. Jones Memorial Library is one of the finest in Western Pennsylvania; the new Aliquippa Hospital will be one of the finest in the country; the schools, playgrounds, swimming pools and other recreational facilities prove that the history of Aliquippa is indelibly recorded with the history of the Aliquippa Works; they have grown together and will continue to expand and develop together.

CITIZEN HEADLINE IN 1905: "Efforts are being made to purchase the entire strip of land lying between the Ohio River and the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie tracks, just east of Aliquippa park. It is a current rumor that the Jones and Laughlin Steel company of Pittsburgh are the parties in whose interests the attempt is being made."

B. F. JONES MEMORIAL LIBRARY

"Adhering strikingly to the classic lines of the Renaissance, the B. F. Jones Memorial Library is nevertheless sufficiently modern in its treatment to suggest a charming freshness which in no way detracts from its dignity of style."

This paragraph introduced the dedicatory program on Friday, February 1, 1929, when Elisabeth M. Horne, daughter of B. F. Jones, founder of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, presented one of the finest libraries in the country to the people of Aliquippa, as a memorial to her father.

Probably the outstanding feature of the library is the simplicity of line and beauty of treatment that gives it dignity, a dignity that is maintained throughout.

Into the B. F. Jones Memorial Library have been embodied the most suitable building materials obtainable, both from the standpoint of the character of the building and according to the uses to which they have been put. For instance, the exterior is of grey Indiana limestone, the usual cornice being omitted and a richly ornamented cheneau of cast bronze being substituted; the walls and colonnades of the main lobby are done in Kasota marble of warm color and other beautiful marbles are to be found throughout; Travertine from Italy supplies the main portion of the flooring. (Travertine is a volcanic rock that forms the hardest floor known, but is the easiest to walk upon.)

Among the more notable architectural features of the building are ornamental plaster ceilings, the color schemes of which were executed under the direction of Norah Thorpe of New York; leaded glass windows by Henry Hunt of Pittsburgh; and special wrought screens in iron and bronze from the studios of Oscar Bach in New York. The statue of B. F. Jones (1824-1903) sits in the entrance foyer, conceived and sculptured by the distinguished American sculptor, Robert Aitken, N.A., of New York.

ALIQUIPPA HOSPITAL

The new Aliquippa Hospital in the Cooper Heights section of Aliquippa is a tribute to the cooperation existing among many elements — the citizens, business, industry and labor in this great community, and to the persistency of men like Nick DeSalle, one of the first advocates of a community hospital for Aliquippa.

There will be 100 beds in the hospital when it opens in September of 1956, and provision has been wisely made in the plans for a future expansion to 160 beds. Situated on a 29-acre plot, the hospital will have 889,050 cubic feet of space; will have 24 private rooms; 30 semi-private with two beds; 4 semi-private with four beds; surgical unit with 53 beds; two nurseries of ten bassinets each; and there will be provisions for suspect cases and premature babies.

More than two million dollars will have been spent when the building is completed and equipped, and this amount was raised in a comparatively short time within the Aliquippa area. The campaign was financed by advances of $25,000 each by Local 1211, CIO-USW, and the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation. The campaign itself was stimulated by a pledge by J & L to match, dollar for dollar, gifts of employees and individuals in the area. At the close of the very successful campaign J & L turned over a check for more than ONE MILLION DOLLARS!

JONES & LAUGHLIN STEEL FORMED IN 1853

In 1853 Benjamin Franklin Jones entered a partnership known as Jones, Lauth & Company, operating puddling furnaces on the south side of Pittsburgh. That was the beginning of J & L, the nation's fourth largest producer of steel, now in its second century.

Fifty-four years later J & L found it necessary to expand its operations beyond the Pittsburgh plant, and a piece of land on the Ohio River at Woodlawn was purchased. This was the birth of the Aliquippa Works Division of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation in 1907.

Much of the 475 acres of land now occupied by the Aliquippa Works had been a picnic area and amusement park, known as Aliquippa Park. The park contained a restaurant, merry-go-round, roller coaster and dance hall, which is still in use as the office building although extensively altered.

On the same site was the farm and homestead of river boat Captain John H. Douds. The home still stands, serving as an office building for the Aliquippa & Southern Railroad, a J & L subsidiary.

The site selected for the plant at Aliquippa was an ideal one, providing a short haul for raw materials, such as ore, coal and limestone; there was plenty of fresh water; a large labor supply, especially of skilled men; transportation by rail and water to and from sources of supply and to distant markets; ample housing areas near the plant; and proximity to the makers of steel mill equipment.

Construction of a blast furnace in 1907 was the start of the Aliquippa Works. Four additional blast furnaces were built; open hearth furnaces, Bessemer converters, coke ovens, and blooming mills were added, along with tinplate, rod, wire, nail, skelp and tube mills.

Though Aliquippa is a fully-integrated plant, it consists of what are designated as the "North Mills" and the "South Mills." In the North Mills are the by-product coke ovens, sintering plant, blast furnaces, Bessemer converters, open hearth furnaces, soaking pits, blooming mill, billet and rod mills, 14-inch rolling mill, skelp mill, boiler houses, and shops.

In the South Mills are the butt and lap-welded mills, the seamless tube mill, the 30-inch round mills, the wire mill, the tin mill, and the new No. 2 rod mill.

The flow of materials at the Aliquippa Works is always in one direction, from the North Mills in the direction of the South Mills, or from the receipt of raw materials to shipment of finished products.

The only handling of mill products, other than by crane or conveyors, during processing, is the transportation by rail of blooms, slabs, billets, or bars from the mills, where they are rolled, to the finishing mills for conversion into tubes, wire, wire products and tinplate.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation employs almost a third of its 45,000 workers at the Aliquippa Works, and produces almost 2,000,000 tons of its annual production capacity of more than six million ingot tons of steel here. It is a great company, and it is making Aliquippa a great city, the largest in Beaver County.

BOROUGH OF BEAVER, PA.

BOROUGH OF BEAVER

The Borough of Beaver, County seat of Beaver County, is situated on a wide, hill-guarded plateau rising about 125 feet above the Ohio River, and overlooking the valleys of the Beaver and the Ohio. Third Street, Beaver shopping center, is a section of Pa. Route 68.

The population of Beaver in 1950 was 6,360, and it is now estimated to be more than 7,500, more than three times the 1900 population of 2,348.

The site of Beaver was a point well known to the Indians, even to those living at a great distance, and it was the scene of frequent skirmishes and bloodshed among the braves. In 1756 the French built a large town here for their Delaware, Shawnee, and Mingo allies.

Fort McIntosh was built near the foot of Market street in the fall of 1778, and in it was concentrated the largest forces west of the Alleghenies during the Revolutionary War, amounting to 1300 Continentals and Virginia Militia at its peak.

This Fort was the scene of a treaty between the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the Delaware and Wyandot Nations in January, 1785.

Beaver was laid out in town lots under the Act of September 28, 1791, by which the Governor was authorized to direct the Survey-General to survey 200 acres of land in town lots, and 1000 acres adjoining in lots of not less than five and not more than ten acres.

It was surveyed the following year by Daniel Leet. Eight squares, four in the center of town and one at each corner, were reserved by the state and are still owned by it. The balance of the lots were ordered to be sold by Governor Mifflin.

When Beaver County was erected in 1800, Beaver was selected as the county seat, and was made a borough on March 29, 1802. The incorporation of the borough included what is now Rochester and Bridgewater. In 1804 the land east of the Beaver River was detached; in 1806, more went to South Beaver township; and in 1835 the town of Bridgewater was formed, bringing Beaver Borough to its present size of a little less than a square mile.

BEAVER IN 1837

(From Harris's "Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania Business Directory for 1837")

Beaver, the County Town of Beaver County, is situated on high and elevated ground on the right bank of the Ohio River and about half a mile from Beaver Creek. It has a population of 1,000 inhabitants.

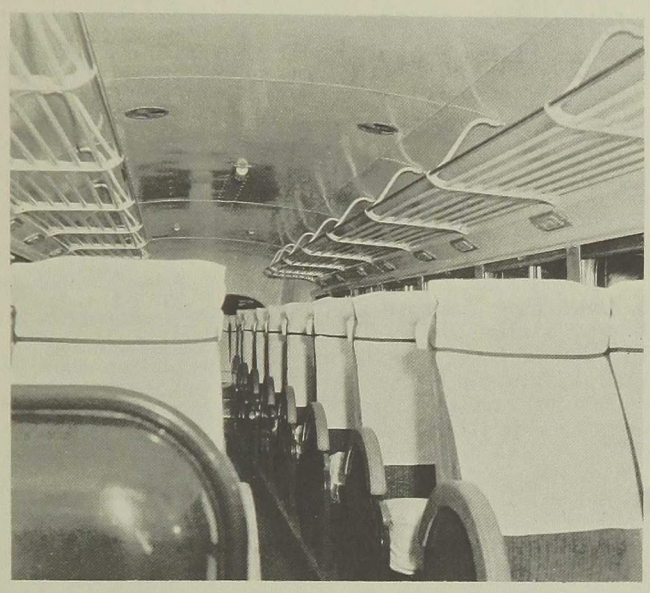

In this place are two churches and two Sabbath Schools, numerously attended; also a Temperance Society, pretty numerous; an Academy, in successful operation, where the ancient as well as modern languages and the higher branches of literature are taught. —L. B. Williams, Principal.

It contains likewise an extensive hat manufactury, a tannery, four smithies, ten stores, a watchmaker's shop, three saddlers shops, five shoe and three tailors shops, four public houses, and two printing offices and weekly papers. Among the residents are three clergymen, ten lawyers, four doctors, and one notary public. A bank, being a branch of the Bank of Pittsburgh, is located here. H. Stow, Cashier.

TRANSPORTATION

Forty trains of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad stop at the Beaver station daily. The C & P Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad maintains a freight station in Beaver, and the borough is ten minutes ride from the main Pennsylvania line in Rochester.

The Beaver Valley Motor Coach Company connects Beaver with other towns in the Beaver Valley and as far south as Sewickley. The Steubenville, East Liverpool Coach Company, with its terminus in Beaver, furnishes interurban transit with East Liverpool, Wellsville, Toronto, Steubenville and other points in Eastern Ohio, and providing connections throughout Ohio and the Panhandle of West Virginia. In addition, Greyhound bus service is available to all points in the nation.

INDUSTRY

Beaver itself is strictly a residential borough, free from factories, but it is in the center of a rich industrial and agricultural region. The variety of the industries in the district assures a uniform prosperity.

The largest single industrial plant is that of Westinghouse Electric, which was built on 30 acres of land adjoining the borough at an approximate cost of $5,000,000. Built by the Defense Plant Corporation as a war measure and operated by the Curtiss-Wright Corporation, it was used for the manufacture of airplane propeller blades. Westinghouse bought the plant in 1946 and is now being operated as the Standard Control Division of that company.

Worth More Than GOLD

"Credit," said Daniel Webster, "has done a thousand times more to enrich mankind than all the gold mines in the world."

You may not be wealthy but—

If you have a good credit record—a reputation for paying your bills promptly and keeping your promises—you have something worth more than gold itself.

And the more you use it the more valuable it becomes! For every prompt payment of an account adds that much prestige to your credit record.

Use your credit freely and pay all bills promptly.

DO THIS FIRST

- Send for a doctor immediately.
- Keep the patient warm.
- Determine if patient has taken
  (1) A POISON: something not meant to be taken internally . . . or
  (2) AN OVERDOSE: a food or drug taken in excessive quantity.
- While waiting for physician, give appropriate counterdose below.
- But do not force any liquids on the patient — if he is unconscious.

To Find the Correct Counterdose

- In one of the lists printed at left, find substance causing the trouble.
- Next to that substance is a number. This refers to counterdose bearing same number in the section below.

Keep all poisons and medicines out of reach of children

Induce vomiting with an emetic such as
- Tablespoon of mustard, or
- Soap & warm water, or
- Salt & warm water, or
- Finger in throat.

- Give a mixture of 2 tablespoons of powdered burnt toast, 1 spoon milk of magnesia, 4 spoons strong tea.
- Induce vomiting. (See #1)

- Give mixture as in #2.
- Induce vomiting. (See #1)
- Give 2 tablespoons epsom salt in 2 glasses of water.
- Then give large quantities of hot coffee or strong tea.

- Give 2 ozs thick starch paste — made by mixing cornstarch & water.
- Then give 2 ozs salt in quart of warm water. Drink until vomit fluid is clear.
- Finally, give glass of milk.

- 4 oz hydrogen peroxide.
- 1 tablespoon sodium bicarb in quart of warm water.
- Then give 4 oz mineral oil. Positively do NOT take vegetable or animal oil.
- Induce vomiting. (See #1)

- Give 2 tablespoons whiskey in 8 spoons warm water.
- Next give glass of milk or whites of 2 eggs.
- Then give hot tea or strong coffee.

- Give mixture as in #2.
- Induce vomiting. (See #1)
- Tablespoon sodium bicarb in quart of warm water.
- Give 2 tablespoons epsom salt in pint of water.

- Give 1 teaspoon of aromatic spirit of ammonia in glass of water.
- Hot coffee or strong tea plus egg white.

- Give mixture as in #2.

BOROUGH OF BRIDGEWATER INCORPORATED IN 1834

Bridgewater was originally (with Rochester, which was known for a time as East Bridgewater) a part of the Borough of Beaver. It was incorporated in 1834, and was consolidated with Sharon in 1868.

Bridgewater lies along the Beaver River from the Fallston line to the Ohio river. First settled in 1798, the first bridge across the Beaver was built there.

The post office was called "West Bridgewater" to avoid confusion with another town of the same name in Pennsylvania.

AARON BURR'S CONSPIRACY

The upper part of Bridgewater was the scene of one part of Aaron Burr's conspiracy for the establishment of an empire in the southwest.

In 1805-06 Burr had a number of boats built for the use of his expedition down the Ohio and Mississippi to New Orleans. These boats were from sixty to seventy feet in length, and held a large cargo.

It is believed that Burr himself visited Bridgewater to inspect the work's progress. According to reports of old timers, the boats were paid for punctually until the last, when the federal government crushed Burr's dreams of empire.

BEAVER BOROUGH SCHOOLS

The public school system of Beaver was organized soon after the free-school legislation was passed in 1834. In 1835 the Beaver school district was formed, including Beaver, Vanport, Bridgewater and Sharon. Two one-story buildings were erected in 1838, and were replaced in 1861.

BEAVER BOROUGH CHURCHES

The history of religious worship in the Borough of Beaver begins before the incorporation of the town, as both Catholics and Presbyterians held services before 1800 on the present site of Beaver.

The Presbyterian church held services as early as 1799, and the first regular pastor was appointed in 1813. There were no church buildings, and services were held in private homes until the completion of the Court House in 1810, after which the Presbyterians and other denominations held services there.

The first building erected as a place of worship was that of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which was authorized to build on the public square by an Act of Assembly in 1826. This edifice was completed in 1830, and it is interesting to note that Frederick Rapp, of the Harmony Society, contributed $25 to the building fund.

The second church building was the Catholic Church of St. Peter and St. Paul, which was built in 1836. An interesting note in connection with this church is that the Catholics took space in the weekly newspaper, "The Western Argus," to publicly thank the generosity of a Protestant, J. W. Hemphill, who donated the ground on which the church was erected.

RECREATION CENTER

Beaver boasts one of the finest recreation centers in Western Pennsylvania, completed in 1941 at a cost of approximately $300,000.

The park contains a large swimming pool for adults and a small one for children, with a beautiful one-story native stone bath house; ten all-weather tennis courts (which can be used for ice skating in winter months), a large stadium for football and baseball; concrete bleachers seating 2,500; a fine horse show ring; spacious picnic and play areas with ovens and shelters. The park is administered jointly by the Borough Council and School Board for the benefit of Beaver residents.

BOROUGH OF ROCHESTER, PA.

Rochester has always been a "natural."

Situated at the great bend in the Ohio River 26 miles northwest of Pittsburgh and at the mouth of the Beaver, Rochester was the "last leg" of the journey to Pittsburgh in the day of river transportation; when the Pittsburgh and Erie Division of the Pennsylvania Canal was built, Rochester was its southern terminus; and when the railroads took over from the canal, Rochester was still in the key position, for at this point the lines from Pittsburgh turned to their different routes—to Cleveland, to Fort Wayne, to Erie.

Rochester has had many different names, and probably the first was "Logan's Town," named after the famous Indian Chief, Logan, who had his lodge at this site, in the midst of a village of Mingo Indians. The mouth of the Beaver river was an important rendezvous of the various Indian tribes, both in peace and war, and many Indian relics have been found here.

The first white settlers located their cabins in the vicinity of Rochester in the 1790's, when it was called Logan's Town. Then from 1802 to 1804 it was a part of the Borough of Beaver. In the deeds of 1834, the name "East Bridgewater" appears, and in 1836 the name "Fairport" is used. Still another name in those times was "Beaver Point," which was used for addressing letters and other mail.

The present name of Rochester was probably given to it sometime between 1837 and 1840, when Mitchell Hammond, who kept a grocery store on Water street, had this name of his own selection put on goods he bought in Pittsburgh and shipped by boat to his home.

After the incorporation of Rochester as a borough in 1849, the town continued a slow but steady growth. But in 1853 there came a change, and from a small, sleepy community Rochester boomed into one of the most progressive towns on the river.

The man responsible for this change was Marcus T. C. Gould, booster, inventor and promoter. It was Gould who laid out the town in lots, interested capital in exploiting it, interested manufacturers in building new industries here, and promoted the town and its industry until the day of his untimely death in 1860. Gould, in spite of his many activities, had time to invent a system of stenography and the first fountain pen.

FIRST SCHOOL

The first public school in Rochester was in a frame building that later was used as the parsonage of the Evangelical Association church, and in 1862 the first brick schoolhouse with four classrooms was built. The first high school was erected in 1901.

FIRST FERRY

The first ferry plying across the Ohio River between Rochester and Phillipsburg (Monaca) was the "Borough Bee." In 1862 the "W. C. Gray" took over the run. In 1873 a Captain Campbell bought the ferry, had it rebuilt, and named it the "Mary C. Campbell" after his wife. The "Mary C." ran on and on until the bridge was built in 1895 and it was then withdrawn from service.

THE Family Burial Estate should be provided for NOW! By planning before need arises, this important task can be accomplished out of current income . . . before bereavement makes it impossible to give the careful consideration these matters deserve.

WHY not do this now, while it is still your privilege, rather than leaving it to your loved ones for a time when it will be a sorrowful duty. WE INVITE THE PUBLIC TO MAKE AN INSPECTION OF OUR GROUNDS

A New MEMORIAL PARK now being erected for the ultimate beautification of this outstanding institution

FREEDOM BOROUGH

In the Beaver "Argus" in May, 1832, there appeared the following story:

"RAPID WORK—Messrs. Phillips and Graham purchased a tract of land from General Abner Lacock, on the Ohio River, on Monday of last week, laid out a town on Tuesday, and built fourteen houses in four succeeding days. At this place they intend establishing their shipyard."

This is the story of the founding of the Borough of Freedom in the year 1832 when shipbuilders Phillips and Graham sold the town of Phillipsburg (Monaca) to Count Maximilian de Leon and his followers who had split with the Harmony Society.

Looking for a new site for their shipyard, Phillips and Graham chose Freedom because of the depth of the water, proximity to their old yard (it was only a mile up and across the river), and other favorable conditions that prevailed, including the price—101 acres for $2,000.

That same year (1832) a number of families came over from Phillipsburg and the place grew rapidly. The houses referred to in the story in the "Argus" were crude board shanties, and hence Freedom was first called "Shanty Town".

Freedom was incorporated as a borough on April 16, 1838, and in 1896 it merged with the borough of St. Clair, also known as "Vicary" from the name of Captain William Vicary who laid it out in 1837.

FREEDOM FACTS:

There are three wards in Freedom—the first is Vicary: the second, St. Claire; and the third is original Freedom plus that part of Rochester Township which was annexed.

The only service club in Freedom at the time of publication was the Lions International, but there are numerous other clubs and organizations, including the Eagles, Moose, Sons of Italy, Serbians and Odd Fellows.

There are three fire sirens in Freedom, one on the Municipal Building on 8th Street, and one at the east and west ends of town. These last two were originally bought for Civil Defense.

The Public Library is located in the Municipal Building.

Freedom's industrial picture is dominated by the Freedom-Valvoline Oil Company, but there is also the Freedom Casket Company, the Jiffy Steak Company, and the Pennsylvania Railroad, whose classification yards, called the "Conway Yards", is the biggest in the world.

VALVOLINE OIL COMPANY FOUNDED IN 1879

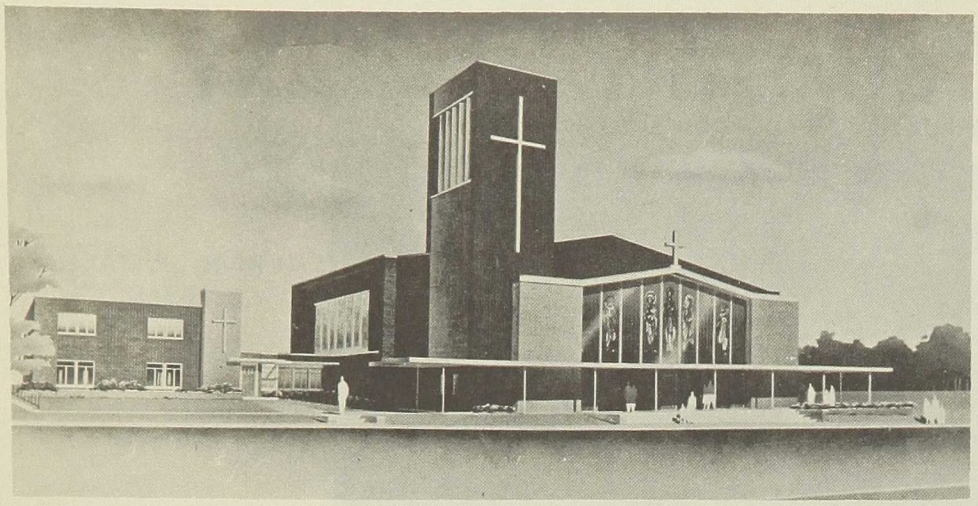

The Valvoline Oil Company Refinery at Freedom was established in 1879 by Dr. Stephen Craig as the Freedom Oil Refinery.

In 1944 the Freedom Oil Company purchased the Valvoline Oil Company, started in 1866 by Dr. John Ellis, and became the Freedom Valvoline Oil Company. In 1950 it became the Valvoline Oil Company Division of the Ashland Oil and Refinery Company.

The company has played a leading role in the development of lubrications since 1866, beginning with the buggies, carriages and steam engines of that period up through the powerful machines of today. The company can proudly claim it produced "the world's first motor oil".

There are more than 300 employees at the plant in Freedom, with more associated in the county and in the tri-state area, and the Freedom plant is being expanded continually as new developments are undertaken.

The engine testing laboratory of Valvoline is located at Freedom and some excellent work has been done at the laboratory checking new additives and other operations. Company products have steadily improved over the years, keeping pace with the development of engines and industry.

QUALITY is never an accident; it is always the result of high intention, sincere effort, intelligent direction and skillful execution; it represents the wise choice of many alternatives, the cumulative experience of many masters of craftsmanship; and it marks the quest of an ideal after necessity has been satisfied and usefulness achieved.

"Whether produced by ancient handcraft or modern industry, that which has lived the longest and which has won highest esteem has been the one which combined usefulness with artistry."

Graule Studio

- This is photography's most coveted emblem . . . only forty men throughout the world are permitted to use it, the emblem of the CAMERACRAFTSMEN OF AMERICA.
- CASTEEL of GRAULE is one of these 40.
- Money cannot purchase it, only a life-long dedication to the creation of beauty through the glorious art of Photography.
- We carry this honor with mixed pride and humility. We have great traditions to uphold.

Let us catch those fleeting moments in your life that you will treasure . . . always.

A GRAULE portrait by CASTEEL is forever . . .

BEAVER VALLEY

"THE ONLY STORE IN THE VALLEY WHERE YOU CAN BUY A NEW OR USED PIANO AT PRICES YOU CAN AFFORD TO PAY!"

You're Always Welcome Here!

A Large Selection of types & finishes await your inspection

Your Child's Dream?

Make your child's dream come true—bring music into her life with a fine piano. The easy purchase terms will surprise and delight you.

BUY A NEW PIANO—THE PURCHASE OF A LIFETIME!

Your purchase of a NEW Piano means years of happy satisfaction and pleasure through its use in your home. Only NEW pianos have the latest developments in better materials and methods of manufacture which have been proved better. You can be sure of your money's worth and complete satisfaction with a new spinet piano. Why not see your dealer today? You can buy a fine new spinet piano from him for less money than you think.

Consider the care and thought you would give to the purchase of a car, especially if it were the only car you would ever have to buy . . . or a television set . . . or any of the modern conveniences that add to good living. Certainly you would demand the very latest, the very best, all of the newest improvements. Nothing second-hand or out-of-date would even be considered. No matter what the cost, you would justify the expenditure . . . and you would be right.

Now, a car or a television set will not last a lifetime—several years perhaps, and the maintenance costs are likely to cut into the family budget at the most inconvenient times. But your new piano will last you a lifetime . . . you'll never have to buy another one. It is guaranteed longer than anything else you buy for your home. New pianos are built to last a long span of years with practically no maintenance costs, just periodic tunings.

Most of us know that the piano is a complete music instrument. Its study includes all of the elements of music, rhythm, harmony, melody, the entire range of the band or orchestra. It is completely suitable for any type of music—music of all lands and of all ages—from the great classics to the latest hit tune of the day. There is practically universal agreement on the fact that the piano is the basic instrument for the study of music fundamentals.

In our purchases for our homes and growing families there is nothing we can buy that is comparable to a new piano, that will give as much entertainment, provide interest, and add to the personal achievement, prestige, culture, and personal equipment of our children as will the ownership and the successful study of this instrument.

Select your dealer and select your piano in much the same way and with much the same attitude you will use in selecting your children's music teacher. Take care in dealing with the so-called "at-cost" or "no-profit" merchant. It may prove to be more costly and jeopardize your child's success. You wouldn't consider a second rate teacher or an out-of-date teacher just to "save" a few dollars any more than you would permit this type of personnel and equipment in the schools your children attend.

Expect your child to succeed in his piano work in the same way you would expect him to learn to read, to do his arithmetic, and to advance from grade to grade in school each year. You would not consider providing him with an excuse in advance against the possibility of his not keeping up with the other children in school.

Development of radio and television, with advances yet in store, has reversed the trend of a generation during which the centers of culture and entertainment were almost anywhere but at home. Once again, however, the living room becomes the center of family entertainment, music and culture. We are moving from apartments to homes, and once again we are buying and learning to use our own tools and equipment.

In view of this trend—and vital to ourselves and to those most frankly critical of all people, our children and their friends—is the fact that the new piano of today is styled and designed to lend singular grace and charm to the modern living room. The old upright with its large size and weight was discarded from the living room more than a generation ago and none has been manufactured for almost 25 years. On the other hand, the new spinet or console piano, with its smart design and modern styling, its compact size to intrigue your youngster, when centered in the living room, immediately becomes its focal point, its heart. The entire family takes pride in its ownership, working more closely with the child for the advancement of his musical education.

Perhaps your children may not make music a career, but you will have given them personal achievement of immeasurable value to aid them throughout life. Your selection of a new piano from an interested responsible music dealer backed by a successful manufacturer of high reputation, your interest, your time, and your encouragement will result in one of the best investments you can make. In so doing your own music ability will increase, and if you do not already play the piano, you will soon realize that anyone can learn to play at any age. Thousands of adults are studying the piano today as beginners, and they are getting greater satisfaction and pleasure from it than anything they have ever done in their lives.

A new piano is a guarantee of a lifetime of pleasure and satisfaction . . . it is the focal point, the musical heart of a home.

The largest birthday celebration ever given Freedom was on its 100th anniversary in 1932. The town was turned upside down in ceremonial praise and even a book was published on the "History of Freedom" by Lydia K. Fruth and Mary Blat.

All Freedom was awakened on that centennial to the early history of their town. Stephen Phillips and Jonathan Betz were brought into view as the founders of the small town, and the only reference to a business in the beginning was the steamboat building owned and operated by the two founders.

In 1957 the birthday lights will probably shine as brightly for Freedom as they did in 1932, for the citizens of Freedom go all out for birthday celebrations!

BOROUGH OF MONACA, PA.

The principal town on the south side of Beaver County at the beginning of the 20th Century was Monaca, which lies at the extreme northern point of the great bend which the Ohio River makes in its course from Pittsburgh.

Monaca is beautifully situated on a broad plateau overlooking the river, and is an ideal situation for expansion. But for many years the growth of the town was slow, as it was cut off from the northern and more thickly settled part of the county by the river, which could be crossed only by ferry. However, with the construction of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad in 1877 communication was made with Pittsburgh, the great center of population to the south, and the river was spanned to Beaver, giving access to that place and the upper valley towns. The erection of the Ohio River suspension bridge in 1895 connected Monaca with Rochester, and the town boomed

The first white settler in what is now Monaca is said to have been a Polish nobleman named Helvedi, who was exiled from his native land. Emigrating to America, he came to this place and engaged in breeding Merino sheep, being the original importer of this valuable breed into this section.

The town itself dates from 1822, when Phillips and Graham established on its site their extensive boat yards. The town was named "Phillipsburg" in honor of Stephen Phillips of this firm, and the name was in use for many years, although when the post office was established in 1856 it was called "Water Cure", there already being another town named "Phillipsburg" in Pennsylvania.

In 1832 Phillips and Graham sold the entire tract of land on which the town was located to the seceders from the Harmony Society at Economy, and removed their boat yards to what is now Freedom, about one mile above and on the opposite side of the river.

The secession from the Harmony Society took place as a result of the differences between the leader, George Rapp, and an adventurer from Germany named Count de Leon. De Leon and his followers, numbering some two hundred and fifty persons, purchased Phillipsburg with the money they had obtained in a compromise with the leaders of the Harmony Society. Here they established a colony under the name of the "New Philadelphia Society", erecting a church, a hotel, and other buildings, some of which are still standing. The Count was made president of the new society, aided by twelve trustees (the resemblance to Christ and His Apostles was intentional).

Financial and other difficulties arose in the Society in the lapse of about 17 months, and a dissolution was decided upon. The following month the Count and his family, with a number of followers, sailed down the Ohio River on a flat-boat and settled at Leo Grand de Cour, 12 miles north of Natchitoches, La., and there, in October, 1934, the Count died and was buried. The descendants of his company remained in that state, in the parish of Clairborne, where some still survive.

The members of the Society who remained in Phillipsburg carried on for some time a cooperative business (as in Economy), but this was soon dissolved, and each individual composing the company set up in life for himself in harmony with the general practice of the people about them. The Wagners, Schaefers, Trompeters, Stroheckers and the Franks are from this community.

The name "Monaca" was adopted for the town on Sept. 20, 1892, and "Phillipsburg" and "Water Cure" passed into history.

Monaca Miscellany

POPULATION OF MONACA

The population in 1890 was 1494; in 1900, 2008; and in 1950 it was 7415.

MONACA INDUSTRIES

MONACA FACTS:

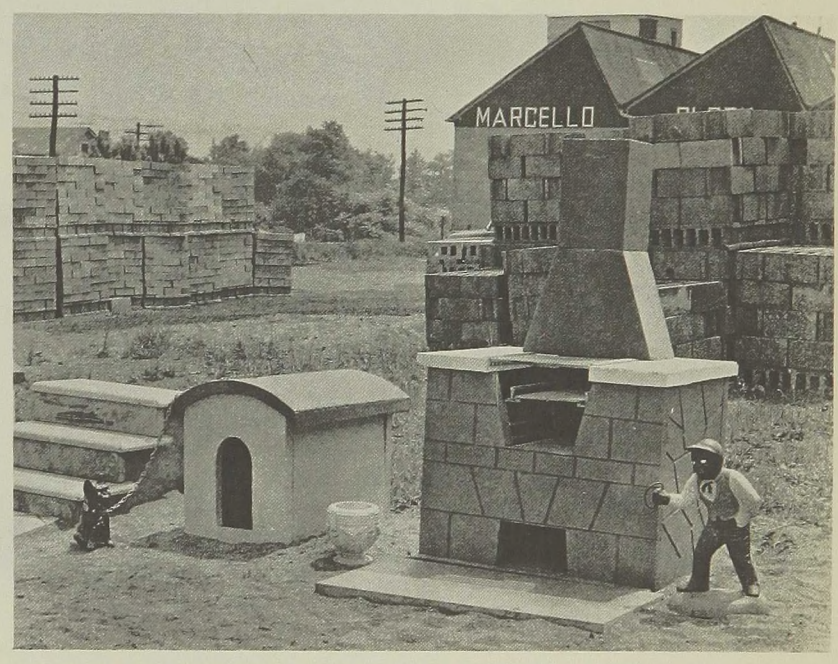

The borough maintains a park—"Allaire Park"—and also a modern swimming pool at 16th street and Indianana avenue, in addition to playgrounds and athletic fields in connection with the public and parochial schools; there is a Free Public Library in the Municipal Building.

BIRTHPLACE OF THIEL COLLEGE

A member of the Second German Evangelical Lutheran church of Pittsburgh, A. Louis Thiel, gave a tenth part of his income for "some useful purpose." At the time of his gift the tithe amounted to $4,000; but before a decision for its use could be made, the figure had increased to $4,500.

It so happened that the price of the old Water Cure Hotel of Cimiotti (that's where the name of the Post Office originated) was for sale. and the price was $4,500. The church bought the hotel and renamed it "Thiel Hall" without the knowledge of the benefactor.

A collegiate charter was obtained from the State, and "Thiel College" opened its doors on September 1, 1870. But the life of the college in Monaca was a short one, for on September 1, 1871, the formal opening of Thiel College at Greenville, Pa., was held and Monaca was no longer a college town!

724 5th STREET — Phone: BEAVER FALLS 3119

CITY OF BEAVER FALLS, PA.

Beaver Falls is on the Beaver River, 30 miles north of Pittsburgh, and is the second largest community in Beaver County, exceeded only by Aliquippa, which has a population (1950) of 26,132 to Beaver Falls' 17,375. With its contiguous areas of Patterson Heights Borough, Riverview, Patterson Township, Pleasantview, Mount Washington, Chippewa Township, White Township, West Mayfield, Morado, North Sewickley Township, Borough of Eastvale and Daugherty Township it has a "metropolitan" population of 40,000 and thus has a logical claim as the largest concentration of population in the county.

The city has had several names, but "Beaver Falls" is said to have been applied to it from the earliest days of its existence. According to Day's Historical Collections, the Beaver River is said to fall 69 feet within five miles of its source, and this tremendous exhibit of Nature's power had different effects on Beaver Falls' future.

First, it is the probable reason why it is not the county seat of Beaver County. The falls prevented passage up the creek, and oldtimers (dependents as they were on river transportation) didn't think that people could reach the site. On the other hand, the immense water power afforded by the falls impressed themselves on visitors, among them General Daniel Brodhead, who, while commandant at Fort Pitt (1779-1781) became well acquainted with this locality, and bought ground here in 1792.

Even in those days Beaver Falls was a wonderful location. Situated about three and a half miles from the mouth of the Beaver, it occupied mainly a plateau some fifty or sixty feet above the creek, and thus has excellent natural drainage. The hills on either side, particularly to the west, rise boldly to a height of about 200 feet, with immense perpendicular cliffs, making very wild and picturesque scenery. The high ground here was formerly covered with those blocks of granite known to geologists as "erratics," which are supposed to have been transported from the Canadian highlands by icebergs and deposited as the bergs melted.

Dr. Samuel Adams followed General Brodhead closely, and prior to 1800 he had built a dam, erected a sawmill and made other improvements. In 1801 David Hoopes began the erection of mills along the river, and Beaver Falls had its first industry.

The Harmony Society is a definite factor in the history of Beaver Falls, and they would have bought the site of today's city for $32,000 prior to 1820, but they were discouraged by their inability to get a clear title to the land, due to settlers along the river claiming "squatter's rights." Thus, when they made their move from old Harmony, in Butler County, it was to Posey County Indiana, and later to Economy, now Ambridge.

But the Harmony Society was still responsible for the present name of Beaver Falls, giving it that name in 1859.

When the town was plotted in 1806 by the Constable brothers of Brighton, England, they were granted the favor of naming the town, and they chose "Brighton." This name was used for some time, but when a new town on the east side of the Beaver was laid out and called first "East Brighton" and later "New Brighton," the town on the west side became generally known as "Old Brighton," and continued so until 1859, when the Harmony Society, which held several mortgages on the property, bought it at Sheriff's Sale for $34,500.

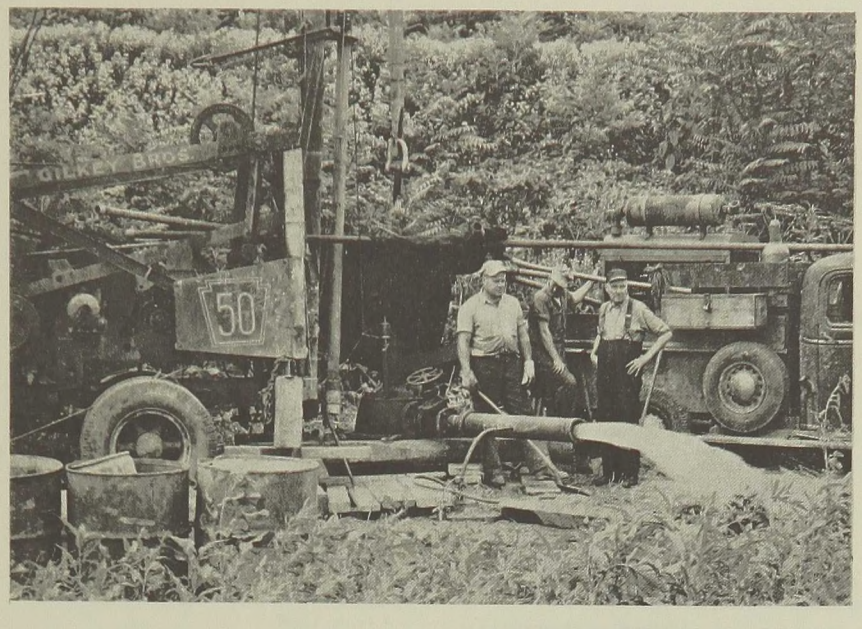

In 1866 the Society made a new survey of the town, and greatly enlarged its limits, extending it along the Beaver River nearly three miles, and began to carry on and to aid various manufacturing and other enterprises. The growth of the town in population and in business became very rapid. In 1868 it was felt that the town should have the advantages of a borough corporation, and it was so incorporated on Nov. 9, 1868.

Beaver Falls was on its way to the heights it has attained today, with an Industrial income of $55,000,000; a retail income of $40,000,000; and three strong banks with deposits of more than $26,000,000!

THIS BOOK IS THE BIGGEST!

Yes, this Directory is the BIGGEST of its type ever published by any newspaper in the United States. More than a hundred people work on it; it took more than a year to compile. The Citizen thanks all the businessmen whose civic pride (evinced by advertising) has made this publication possible.

GENEVA COLLEGE

Beaver County's only school of higher learning is Geneva College, a denominational school under the control of the Reformed Presbyterians or Covenanters. It was founded at Northwood, Ohio, April 20, 1848. By an act of the Synod in 1880 the college was removed to Beaver Falls where a plot of ten acres was donated to it by the Harmony Society, and the main college building, of stone, was erected at a cost of about $40,000. Since that time many buildings and other facilities have been erected and added to the college.

Geneva College was incorporated under the laws of Pennsylvania on June 18, 1883.

Today Geneva College is the educational hub of the Beaver Valley, and has grown from its single original building to a physical plant embracing fourteen units, with a day school enrollment in excess of six hundred students.

(Ed. Note: The lead paragraph in this story was written in 1904 by Historian Busman for his "History of Beaver County"!)

EASTVALE BOROUGH

Eastvale Borough lies on the East bank of the Beaver River, opposite Beaver Falls City, with which it is connected by a bridge, across which runs Pa. Route 588. It is practically a suburb of Beaver Falls, although it enjoys a separate borough organization, incorporated in March, 1892. Post Office established 1897.

Population, 1900, 256; 1950, 533.

EASTVALE CLAY PRODUCTS CO.

The Eastvale Clay Products Company is located in the Borough of Eastvale, and is the chief industry of that community.

The plant at various times was operated as Douglas-Whistler Company; Pittsburgh Clay Products Company and was purchased by the present owners approximately 18 years ago, and is operated by some of the heirs of the late P. Pettler of Beaver Falls, Pa.

The Company manufactures "IRON-SPOT" Face Brick for building purposes and Fire Clay Industrial Brick.

RECREATIONAL AREAS abound in the Valley area, there being literally hundreds of places offering swimming, boating, fishing and hunting.

In addition to Raccoon State Park, Beaver County's Brady's Run Park and many municipal parks, there are country clubs, golf courses, tennis courts and many other facilities.

The fisherman is extremely fortunate in this area, for there are private lakes which provide year-around sport, such as Perry Lake, pictured here.

BEAVER COUNTY FACTS

County officials are chosen every four years at the November election, the first Tuesday after the first Monday of the odd year 1955, 1959, etc., and assume office the first Monday of January of the following even year. The same term of office applies to the Jury Commissioners, but at the present time this office is filled at the November election of the odd year 1953, 1957, etc., and assume office the first Monday of January of the following year.

The term of office of the judges of the Common Pleas Court of Beaver County is ten years, elective at present at the November election of the odd year 1955, 1965, etc., and he takes his office the first Monday of January of the following even year. In case a vacancy occurs the Governor fills the position by appointment until the next municipal election only, when the electors will elect a judge for the full term of ten years, and he will take office the first Monday of January following the election.

Beaver County met the constitutional requirement for a separate Orphans' Court in 1940 when the federal census showed that the population of the county exceeded 150,000. The necessary enabling legislation was enacted by the 1951 General Assembly and signed by the Governor at an extended session January 9, 1952. The late Richard H. West was appointed by the Governor on January 9 and was sworn in as the first judge of the separate Orphans' Court January 14, 1952. The term of office of the Judge of the Orphans' Court is ten years and the first election was held in November 1953.

Cases concerning the settlement of decedents' estates, trust estates, inheritances, appointment of guardians of minors and matters pertaining to their estates, adoption of children, marriage licenses, etc., are settled in this Court.

The County Treasurer cannot succeed himself by law.

The Sheriff, since the adoption of the Amendment to the Constitution at the November election in 1945 can succeed himself by law.

The chief law-enforcement officer of the County is the Sheriff. The Legislative officers of the County are the Board of County Commissioners, composed of three members, two of which are chosen by the majority party and the other from the minority party. The Commissioners also are the functioning Boards for the various other departments of the County, namely: County Registration Commission, Board of Elections, Board of Assessment and Review, County Retirement Board, Salary and Prison Board. These in conjunction with their many varied duties require strict adherence to the laws of the Commonwealth and Nation.

The Judiciary is vested in the Judges of the Common Pleas Court. The number of Judges allotted to a County is based on population determined by the United States census figures each ten years supplemented by an enabling act of the State Legislature.

Under Section 921 of the Pennsylvania Public School Code, the County Board of School Directors consisting of five members shall be elected at the annual convention of school directors of the county next preceding the expiration of their respective terms of office, by majority vote of the school directors of the districts under the supervision of the county superintendent, attending such annual convention. In 1952, two were elected for a six year term in 1954, two were elected for a six-year term and in 1956 one will be elected for a six-year term. The term of office begins the first Monday of July of the even years.

The powers and duties of the County Board of School Directors are defined in Section 925 of the School Code.

BEAVER FALLS FIRE ALARM SYSTEM CONCEIVED BY CHIEF

A model for small metropolitan areas throughout the country is the Beaver Falls City fire alarm system, the brainchild of Fire Chief Ed Phillips, who spent several years developing the system.

Fire-fighting experts from all over the country have contacted Chief Phillips, both by mail and by personal visits, seeking information about the Beaver Falls system and the possibility of adapting it to their own communities.

The basis of the system is the economy of manpower and the speed by which alarms can be translated into speedy action, both of which are effected by modern electronics.

The "guts" of the system is located in the City Municipal Building, where central Fire Station Number One and the Chief's office are located. From this headquarters control is had over Company Number Two, located at the College Hill Fire Department at 35th street and Sixth Avenue, and at surrounding borough fire departments, such as Chippewa Township, Patterson Heights Borough, White Township, etc.

Alarms may originate by telephone or from one of the 62 box alarms in the city, a system which was renovated in 1949 at a cost of more than $60,000.

When the alarms are received at headquarters, they can be relayed manually or electronically by tone control to any of the fire companies and to the fire-fighting personnel. The personnel is alerted by a system of home signaling that presently includes 20 electric signals and 33 FM radio receivers, but eventually all of the homes will be supplied with the radios.

An alarm in Beaver Falls can bring out an amazing array of modern equipment. In Beaver Falls City alone there are three pumpers, a 1250-gallon purchased in 1938; a 750-gallon purchased in 1952; another 750-gallon purchased in 1955; an 85-feet aerial ladder purchased in 1942; a 65-feet aerial ladder purchased in 1941; a utility car; a station wagon that serves both for first aid and for the chief; and a first aid ambulance.

This equipment can throw a tremendous amount of water from the city's 243 hydrants through 8,000 feet of 2½-inch hose and 3,000 feet of 1½-inch hose.

Chief Phillips' system has saved thousands of dollars in excess of the cost to assemble and install it, and is acknowledged as one of the finest in the country, but the veteran firefighter says that there is still a better system that can be used by anyone—the prevention of fires by careful control of trash, rubbish, heating system and electrical appliances and wiring, and all other common fire hazards!

BEAVER COUNTY AIRPORT

The Beaver County Airport, elevation 1247 feet, lies just off Pa. Route 51 in back of Beaver Falls. Its east-west runway is paved for about 3,000 feet, and its north-south runway is kept in very good condition, sodded, by county employees, with plans for extensive paving and extension of runway length in the future.

The airport was designed both as a national defense measure and as preparation for the air age of the future. It is now being used by private planes owned both by industries and individuals, and for "air taxi" service to the Greater Pittsburgh Airport and other county airports. A flying service and school is maintained at the airport by Merrill Moltrup, who is also the manager of the airport for the county.

BEAVER COUNTY PARKS

There are at the present time two large parks in Beaver County, and plans have been made for the establishment of two more.

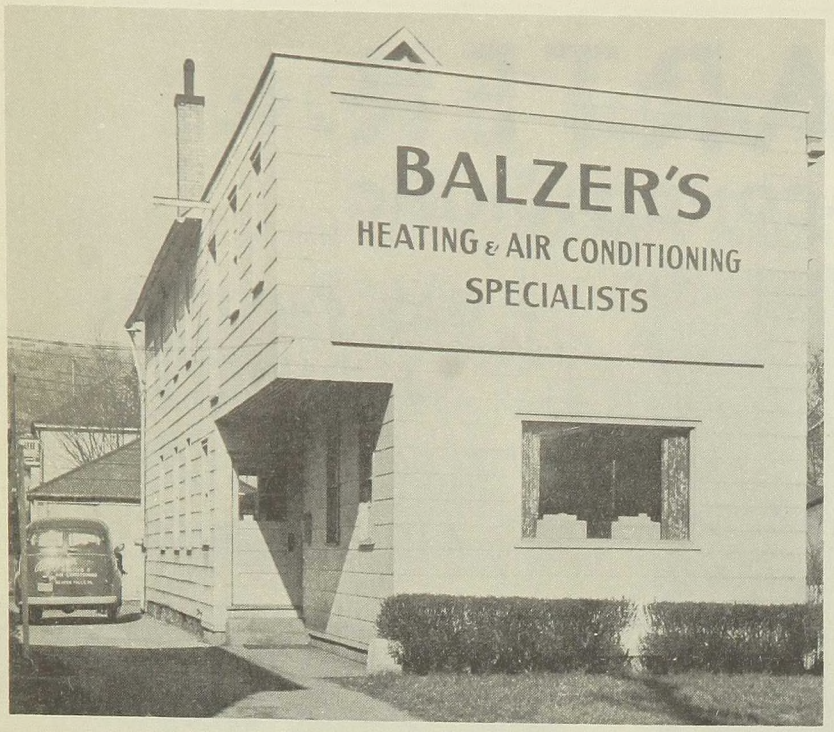

The largest park is the Racoon Creek State Park, on Pa. Route 18 off U. S. 30 in the southwestern part of the county. There the outdoor enthusiast will find provisions for bathing, camping, fishing and picnicking.

Beaver County's pride and joy is Brady's Run Park, located in the center of the county on Pa. Route 51, two miles north of Beaver. This 750-acre park was purchased in 1946 and dedicated to the public use in 1950.

Brady's Run Park has facilities for bathing, boating, fishing, shows (such as the annual dog show), athletics, recreational activities, playgrounds and picnicking.

Of the ten shelters in the park, eight are reserved in advance for groups of 100 to 500 persons. At each shelter there are water pumps, sanitary facilities and electric lights, which, incidentally, are strung throughout the park. The lake, which in summer is an ideal swimming hole, is a perfect ice skating rink in the winter, with windbreakers and lights along the shore.

The county parks are under the direction of Russell O. Wright, Superintendent of the Department of Public Works. His department, which brought out the beauties and possibilities of Brady's Run Park at a very low cost to the taxpayer, has plans for a second park on a 250-acre plot on the Wall Rose—Conway road near Ambridge, and another in the northeast section of the county.

BEAVER COUNTY SCHOOL SYSTEM

The forty-four Fourth Class and two Third Class School Districts of Beaver County under County Supervision had in operation during the school year 1953-54 eighty elementary, four junior high, one junior-senior high, and three senior high schools or a total of 88 schools. Of this number, twenty-two are approved consolidated schools and twenty-one are one-room schools. One hundred thirty-two one-room schools have been permanently closed since 1911.

PERSONNEL

During the school year 1953-54 there were a total of 555 teachers and administrators employed in the Beaver County schools. Of this number 407 were elementary teachers; 7 kindergarten; 95 were high school teachers; 3 high school principals; 1 junior high school principal; 4 elementary principals; 11 supervising principals; 10 supervisors; 12 school nurses; one school counselor; one superintendent; two assistant superintendents and one supervisor of special education.

YEARS OF SERVICE

A review of the service record of the professional employees in the districts of Beaver County under County supervision shows service records as follows:

1 to 1.9 years—56	5 to 9.9 years—90	20 to 24.9 years—60
2 to 2.9 years—35	10 to 14.9 years—95	25 to 29.9 years—45
3 to 4.9 years—47	15 to 19.9 years—88	over 30 years—38

Average service—12.5 years

Beaver Briefs

Formal education in the Borough of Beaver began in 1800, when the Legislature authorized the Beaver Academy on March 12 of that year. But it was not until February 9, 1815, that the school was opened.

In 1844 the school was opened for the reception of female students, so it was the first coeducational institution in the county. Coeducation did not prove beneficial to higher learning, however, and in 1854 the girls were moved out into a new building called "The Female Seminary of Beaver Academy." The year before this (1853) the Beaver College and Musical Institute was chartered as the "Beaver Female Seminary" under the auspices and patronage of the Pittsburg Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church of the United States.

Geneva College, a co-educational institution, is located at Beaver Falls and a State Armory at New Brighton.

The Brodhead Trail, built by General Daniel Brodhead from Fort Pitt to Fort McIntosh in 1778 for military purposes, is now a part of Route 51 in the vicinity of Aliquippa.

In 1779 General Brodhead led an expedition up the Allegheny river toward New York state for the purpose of subduing the Indians.

In 1749 Conrad Weiser, Pennsylvania Indian agent, peacemaker and interpreter, carried a message to the Indians camped at Logstown, near Ambridge. He told them the land belongs to the English. The following year the French planted leaden plates along the Allegheny and Ohio rivers claiming the lands for the French. Many important conferences between Indians, French and English took place at Logstown.

BEAVER COUNTY GRANITE

Granite does not belong to the rocks of this region, there being none nearer than several hundred miles to the north, but there is granite in Beaver County!

This paradox is explained by historian Bausman in his history of Beaver County as follows:

"In the extreme northwestern corner of the county lies Darlington township, and in it are found large blocks of granite lying perched upon the highest hilltops, as well as in the valleys. Granite does not belong here, and therefore these perched blocks or erratics, as they are called by geologists, must have been carried by some agency to the point where they now lie.

"It is believed that in ages past, when this whole region was submerged to a depth of probably 1300 feet, these huge intruders on our soil were transported here on the bosom of vast icebergs upon which they had fallen, and which, breaking away from the glaciers of the Canadian highlands, gradually melted as they passed into the warmer waters of the south, dropping the rocks which were imbedded in them upon the surface where we find them.

"These granite blocks are found only in the valley of the Beaver River and that portion of Beaver County west of it. They have never been seen in the geological district east of it, nor south of the Ohio River in Pennsylvania. They are all sizes, ranging from six inches in diameter up to several feet. One seen in Darlington township is ten feet long, eight feet across, and six feet high."

BOROUGH OF NEW BRIGHTON, PA.

NEW BRIGHTON BOROUGH

(Incorporated 1838)

New Brighton is located on the east bank of the Beaver River about two miles from its junction with the Ohio River, on Penna. Routes 18 and 88, and directly across the river is Route 51.

The history of New Brighton began around 1799 when one John Wolf began the operation of a flouring mill near the present dam. This was the first mill of any kind east of the Beaver, and people came to it from as much as 30 miles away, traveling over a bridle path through the forest. The mill was operated until 1820.

The first manufacturing plant was erected in 1836 as a wagon shop, but was later changed to a woolen mill. There was, however, a brick yard operating on Oak Hill near the cemetery as early as 1830.

Education was a field in which New Brighton registered many "firsts." In 1833 one Marcus T. C. Gould, from Rome, N. Y., advertised the establishment of The New Brighton Female Seminary, wherein young ladies were to be taught "all the useful branches of modern female education." On May 1, 1837, Richard Leech and his wife of Harrisburg opened a female seminary, announcing that they would teach the English branches, plus French, Latin and the higher mathematics.

The Beaver County Institute was organized in 1837, the object being "the promotion of science and literature, but more especially of natural history." In 1840 the New Brighton Female Seminary was chartered.

Finally, in 1840, the educators got around to the boys. In that year a male academy, known as The Brighton Institute, was opened for business.

The first public school, in the meantime, had been erected in 1835. It was a small brick building, with seats of rough planks, and boards nailed to the walls as writing desks. Naturally, there were no modern conveniences associated with the school!

The first graded school in the county was conducted in 1857 in a three-story building at Ninth Street and Fifth Avenue, and in 1861 when the stirring scenes of the war were disturbing the ordinary routine of life, patriotic meetings were held in the school hall. The speeches were so good at one meeting that 17 of the students enlisted and went to the front!

In 1881 a three-year course was adopted at the high school, and the first diplomas were awarded in 1883. In 1889 the fourth year was adopted.

Private schools were numerous in New Brighton in the middle 19th Century, and Bausman, in his "History of Beaver County," relates the unusual history of one in these words: "In the early sixties the Johnson school was held in this building for a short time. It was also used afterwards as a Water Cure Establishment, as an Asylum for the Insane, and later as a fine boarding house and dwelling."

The Bank of Beaver County was organized in 1857, and was one of the few banks in the country that did not suspend specie payments during the Civil War. It was succeeded in 1864 by the National Bank of Beaver County which was the first, and for many years, the only national bank in Beaver County. This bank was in turn succeeded by the National Bank of New Brighton, organized Oct. 29, 1884.

ANTI-SLAVERY AGITATION

The Beaver Falls Colonization Society, auxiliary to the Pennsylvania Young Men's Colonization Society, was organized in New Brighton, Dec. 1, 1837. This Society led to the formation of the Beaver County Society in 1838, and its love of liberty led to the establishment of the "underground railway," by which many a poor, hunted slave escaped safely to freedom.

FIRST POST OFFICE IN 1849

New Brighton did not have a post office until 1849. Up to that date all mail was received through Fallston. With the election of Millard Fillmore to the vice presidency of the United States in 1848, B. B. Chamberlin, who had served in Fillmore's office, was appointed postmaster of New Brighton in 1849, and this town had its first post office!

WAR SERVICE

During the Civil War New Brighton sent two companies —

nearly 300 men — to the front for three years. In the Spanish-American War 89 men — more than four times the quota — served from this town. In World War I, World War II and in the Korean Police Action New Brighton men and women have served their country well and beyond their "quota."

FAMOUS RESIDENTS

Sara Jane Clarke, "Grace Greenwood," the well-known writer, was for some years a resident of New Brighton, as was another literary figure, Anna Dickinson.

The great American composer, Stephen C. Foster, was a resident and wrote some of his early songs here. Foster lived in a one-story cottage at the S.E. corner of Tenth Street and Seventh Avenue.

"You'll like the way we do business"

It is only human to take for granted many of the blessings that have come to us in modern times. This is particularly true with respect to the great advances made by the pharmaceutical industry in guarding health and saving lives. Along with this, perhaps we also lose sight of the fact that like other fine new products that brighten our lives, newer and better medicines too are likely to cost more in dollars. We are apt to forget that the values they bring are bargains; and in many instances we can now purchase what neither love nor money could buy a short time ago.
Every day we spend freely for things that are not necessities —much more indeed than for important drugs that add to our comfort, keep us healthy, overcome illness, and save our lives.

FALLSTON BOROUGH

Fallston, beautifully situated on the west bank of the Beaver just below the falls from which it took its name, is one of the most unusual towns in Beaver County in that its population of more than 1,000 in 1837 has shrunk to 511 in 1950 while the County population has increased six times over the same period.

Changing economic conditions and demands are the reasons for Fallston's decline in population, for in the 1830's it was the chief and almost only point of mechanical and manufacturing industry in the county.

Immediately opposite New Brighton and about a mile below Beaver Falls, which was at one time connected by a road running through the "Narrows," as the contracted space between the hills and the river was called, Fallston was rich in history even before the first white man appeared.

For Fallston was a place much frequented by the Indians, and up and down the little stream which comes dashing down the wild glen. On the west of it ran a path leading to one of the great Indian villages where is now located Sandusky, Ohio. This path was much used by the Rangers from Ft. McIntosh under Captain Sam Brady. The rescue of Jenny Stupes and her child, who had been captured by the Indians, made Brady such a local hero that his name is immortalized in Brady's Run, Brady's Hill, and now, Brady's Run Park.

Opposite the present site of Fallston was the blockhouse which was built in the fall of 1788, when, by order of Congress, Fort McIntosh was ordered to be demolished.

One of the first to make improvements at Fallston was John McKee, of McKeesport, who assigned part of his plantation in 1796 to Levi B. Stuart, of Moon Township. After having passed through several hands, the land was purchased by one David Townsend, who started a sawmill in 1800; in 1804 the Pughs started a flouring mill; in 1808 Townsend erected a mill for the manufacture of linseed oil and for the manufacture and spinning of cottons. Septimus Sharpless started the first woolen mill in 1809 and in 1812 James Douglass started the manufacture of carding machines.

The secret of this industrial growth can be laid to the ingenuity of the early settlers who built a race-way from the dam in the river down through the "Narrows," and this water power was sufficient to supply all the needs of the plants built in Fallston.

Fallston was incorporated in 1829, and the Post Office established the same year. From its peak population of over a thousand in 1837, and with the giant strides made in Beaver Falls and New Brighton about the same time, Fallston's population dropped to 865 in 1843, to 629 in 1870; to 549 in 1900, and to 511 in 1950.

Fallston can be proud of its record of having the closest ties between religion and education in the county, for here, in the 1830's, all religious denominations used the Fallston Academy, founded in 1832, for church services.

STANDARD CLAY MFG. CO.

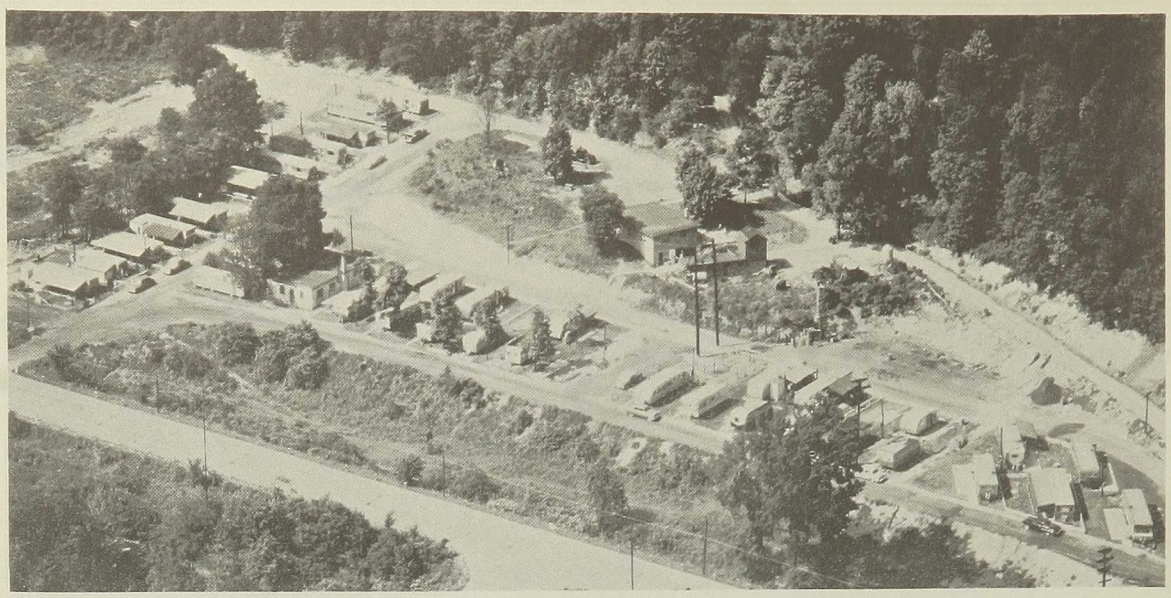

The Standard Clay Mfg. Company is located on Route 51 in Fallston, Pa.

The present company has been in operation approximately 30 years. The plant was purchased by the late P. Pettler of Beaver Falls, Pa. from the Standard Fire Brick Company, who for many years previously made refractory brick for industrial purposes.

ment of some of the heirs of the late P. Pettler and now manufactures "IRON-SPOT" Face Brick, Facing Tile, Fire Brick and Industrial Shapes. Brick of Standard, Roman and Norman sizes and Facing Tile are manufactured in various color shades. The basic Shades are Buff, Brown and Pink.

The Company enjoys a wide distribution of its products, having supplied brick for institutions in most of the States and Eastern Canada. Brick from this plant have been exported to such distant places as the Hawaiian Islands, Mexico and Germany.

Carrier Weathermaker air conditioners will heat and cool both new and existing homes

The Carrier Weathermaker air conditioner in this closet stands about five feet high, is only three feet square. Yet it is big enough to heat and cool the average five or six room house.

TIME PAYMENTS

Can Be Arranged Up To Four Years

ESTIMATES

Given At No Obligation To You

Today, there's no need to dream about air conditioning! If you want it, you can have it! And the price is right! Carrier Weathermakers* are now so reasonably priced that they are being installed in homes costing a little as $10,000!

And you get your money back in many, many ways! You save on cleaning and redecorating expense. You keep the money you used to spend on trips and excursions to escape the heat. All you give up are sleepless summer nights, sodden days, blasting fans, lackadaisical meals, and all the dust and noise that formerly drifted through your windows.

Why not let us make a survey of your home? You'll be under no obligation.

BOROUGH OF CORAOPOLIS, PA.

The Borough of Coraopolis was incorporated in 1886, and the post office, which had previously borne the name of "Vancefort", was changed to agree with the name of the Borough.

The first white settler in what is now known as Coraopolis was a sturdy pioneer named Robert Vance, who moved in on land owned by Henry Montour. Montour had secured warranty title to the site of Coraopolis on April 3, 1769.

Vance was a man of initiative, daring and strength. He had to be, for in the days when he settled here the Indians were very unfriendly to anyone who even thought of staking a claim on the west banks of the Ohio, and, to say the least, were agressive in their efforts to send Vance back across the Ohio or to the Happy Hunting Grounds.

But Vance had his own ideas about residences, and his home was a fort in all the word implies. It was a haven of refuge for trappers and other settlers moving along the Ohio, and when the Indians went on the warpath there was always a sufficient force at Vance's Fort to repulse their attacks. The name of "Vancefort" grew in legend, and when the first post office was established in 1861 it paid tribute to the first settler by taking his name, though the village became known as Middletown.

Henry Montour's name has been perpetuated more solidly than Vance's, for it is carried at the northern Neville Island bridge in "Montour Junction", and in the name of the Montour Heights Country Club, across from the Greater Pittsburgh Airport.

The possibilities that lay in Coraopolis were predicted as early as 1889, in which year the historian Warner said of it:

"The location combines healthfulness, accessibility and congenial natural surroundings, the requisite conditions to secure valuable and permanent accessions to the population. The next few years will probably bring forth great changes in its appearance, and in that of this entire section of the country."

Warner probably thought that he was going out on a limb in making his prediction, but it's safe to say that never in his wildest dream did he conceive the Coraopolis of today, with its great and varied industries, its modern stores and markets, its schools and churches, and its thousands of homes—all of which makes it one of the pearls of the Ohio!

RECREATIONAL AREAS:

Coraopolis Memorial Stadium — Maple Street — athletic fields

Coraopolis Borough Park—picnic areas, playgrounds

Ewing Field—1st Ave. & Mill St.—Little League Field, playgrounds

Playgrounds at the following schools: Lincoln, Ridge Ave. & Feree St.; Central, Vance & School Sts.; McKinley, 6th Avenue

YMCA—State Ave. at Mill St.—swimming pool, gymnasium, etc.

Coraopolis Memorial Library—State Ave. & School Street.

Coraopolis is served by its own Municipal Water Works and the borough also has its own incinerator plant. It is located on the main line of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad, a subsidiary of the New York Central, and by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

SERVICE CLUBS:

Exchange Club — First Presbyterian Church, 1st & 3rd Thursday, 6:30 p.m.

Kiwanis Club—YMCA, Tuesday, 6:15 p.m.

Lions — Elks Club, 2nd & 4th Wednesdays, 6:15 p.m.

Coraopolis has a large labor pool, and has become one of the leading centers of the great iron and steel industry on the Ohio River. Skilled workmen produce many types of materials and many own their own homes, providing a stable source of labor for the further diversification of industry in keeping with the changing picture of the atomic age.

The principal industries are:

Standard Steel Spring Division of Rockwell Spring & Axle Co. has three plants located here, manufacturing auto bumpers, auto springs, etc.

Pittsburgh Forgings Co. — forgings, farm machinery, implement parts

Consolidated Lamp & Glass Co.—glass products

Continental Foundry & Machine Co., Pittsburgh Works

Montour R. R.—repair shops

Dakota Mfg. Co.—carbon paper, typewriter ribbons, etc.

THE BELT ROUTE PLAN

The Belt Route Plan was designed to expedite through traffic in the Pittsburgh area and consists of approximately 300 miles of county roads which make it possible to drive around Pittsburgh without using congested U. S. and state routes.

These routes are marked by signs bearing the name of the color, a ball in the corresponding color, and E or W to designate the direction of travel.

Ambridge is the start of the second shortest of all the belts, the Red Belt, which runs eastward from the Ambridge-Aliquippa bridge to Tarentum, a distance of 38 miles.

From the bridge the route goes over 11th street to Duss avenue to Fair Oaks, along the Big Sewickley Creek to Pleasant Hill, across U. S. 19 at Warrendale, (a mile above which is the Perry Highway interchange of the Pa. Turnpike, the closest interchange to Ambridge), than to West Union Church, Bakerstown, Culmerville, Millertown and Tarentum.

The Orange Belt runs east from the Greater Pittsburgh Airport to Carnot, Stoops Ferry, Sewickley, Sewickley Heights, Wexford, Salem Church, Gibsonia and on to Creighton and New Kensington.

The Yellow Belt runs northeast from U. S. 30-22 to Coraopolis, Sewickley, down PA. 88 to Glenfield, to Mt. Nebo, Ingomar, through North Park to Wildwood, Dorseyville and on to Oakmont.

MOON TOWNSHIP H. S. MYSTERY SOLVED BY BRUNN

Phillip A. Brunn, Jr., of Ingomar, doesn't use the same methods as Ellery Queen and other great detectives of fiction and TV, but his are just as scientific and effective.

Take the Case Of The Ten Missing Septic Tanks, which had the school authorities of Moon Township in a dither not too many years ago.

The first indication that anything was wrong in Moon Township came when the supervising principal ordered the tanks cleaned—all ten of them.

Not a single tank could be found!

There were blueprints, of course, and the blueprints blueprinted the location of the tanks. But just like so many pirate's treasure maps, digging produced only unwanted rewards—blisters.

A modern school like Moon Township cannot operate efficiently without septic tanks in its sewerage system, and there were ten of them, but all full. So a holiday was declared while the educators sought assistance.

On the other side of the Ohio River there was a man whose fame as a modern Sanitary Contractor had spread from the town of Ingomar throughout Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia—Phillip A. Brunn, Jr. He was called into consultation and the emergency explained to him.

School reopened when Brunn pressed emergency equipment into operation while his men searched for the elusive tanks.

He hired some electronic sounding equipment; contrived a "snake", a limber piece of steel charged with electric wires. He slithered the snake through the main line while the sounding equipment worked on the ground level. When contact was made a steam shovel went to work, digging through 14 feet of ground and piling hugh mounds of earth in the school yard.

The tanks were found; Brunn had done it again.

PROTECT YOUR CHILDREN FROM POISON!

Last year 480 children four years of age or younger died as the result of poison carelessly left about the home by adults.

These tragedies could have been prevented in each case by a few moments of thought on the part of their now sorrowing parents. If poisonous materials had been locked in cabinets or chests the babies could not have reached and swallowed them.

What are the poisons that should be locked beyond the reach of children?

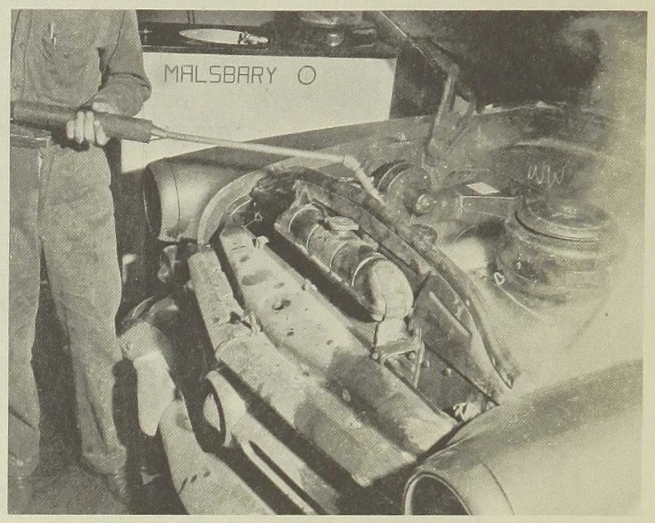

The following list includes most of the injurious types found in average home. Check the list and act now to prevent a tragedy in the future:

Liquid cleaners; paint thinners; varnishes; bleaches; rubbing alcohol; kerosene; fingernail polishes and remover; hair tonics; and aspirin.

Better-known poisons include sulfuric and other acids; insecticides; rat poisons which contain arsenic or phosphorus, strychnine, bichloride of mercury, etc., etc.

MINNICK MODEL TRIMMER CO.

OVER 20 YEARS OF PRECISION MACHINING

DENTAL LABORATORIES & DENTISTS — ATTENTION!

THE MODEL TRIMMER

No matter in what type of Dentistry you specialize, a Model Trimmer is practically indispensible. Being able to show patients neat sturdy models of complete dentures, partial dentures and bridgework is naturally more convincing than a detailed explanation.

The sturdy electric unit pictured above can be used to trim down stone or plaster models quickly and efficiently. It is equipped with a grinding wheel 10 inches in diameter, and may be furnished in coarse, medium or fine grade. Wheel has grinding surface on both sides and may be easily reversed when one side is worn.

This Model Trimmer comes equipped with rubber hose for drainage and copper tubing, regulating valve and pipe connector for water connection. Its grinding surface at the opening is 4x4 ½ inches and included is two work rests for undercuts and overcuts. Equipped with ¼ h.p., 1750 r.p.m. motor, including switch, cord and plug.

Priced unusually low this trimmer is a time and money saver that you cannot afford to overlook. We will be glad to furnish the names of prominent dentists and dental laboratories who are now using this trimmer. Further information will be furnished upon request.

This trimmer has been manufactured for over 20 years. We have thousands of satisfied customers all over the United States and in many foreign countries. This trimmer is of aluminum construction. The adjusting device for grinding plate is our newly added feature, no tools are required for adjustment. Just thumb and finger.

PRESIDENTIAL SUCCESSION

The President of the United States is inaugurated under the provisions of the Twentieth Amendment, January 20th, each fourth odd year.

Congress meets annually, January 3rd, under the Twentieth Amendment, unless by law they choose a different day.

In 1947 Congress determined that the Speaker of the House of Representatives shall become President if both the President and Vice-President die or are removed from office.

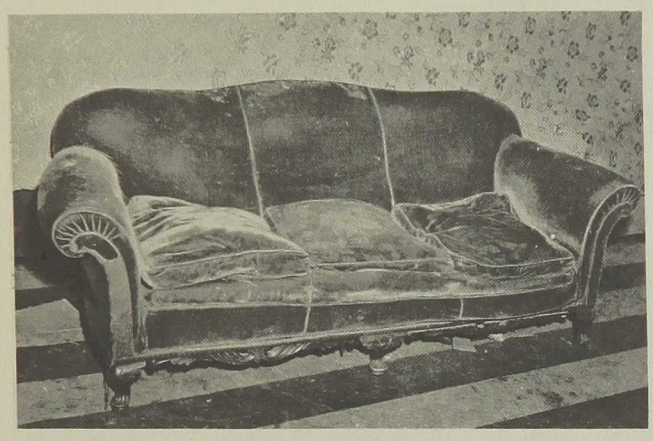

If the Speaker of the House of Representatives should fail to qualify, die or is removed from office the President pro tempore of the Senate becomes President. After that the members of the President's Cabinet would become President in the following order:

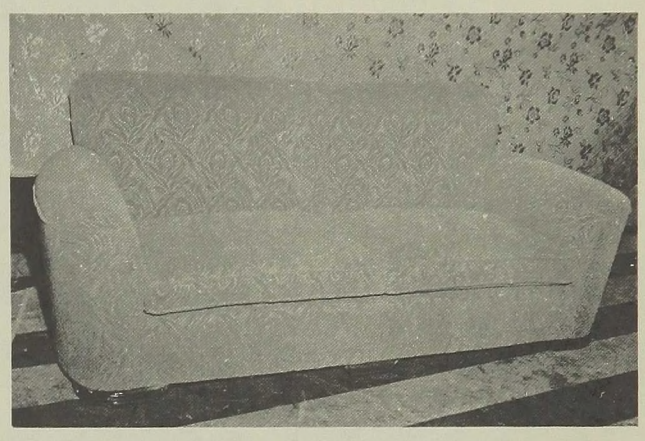

Secretary of State; Secretary of the Treasury; Secretary of Defense; Attorney General; Postmaster General; Secretary of Interior; Secretary of Agriculture; Secretary of Commerce; Secretary of Labor; and Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

BOROUGH OF SEWICKLEY, PA.

The growth of Sewickley has been influenced solely by its advantages as a place of residence, it being one of the most delightful suburban locations in the County.

No effort has ever been made to introduce manufacturers, and the local business interests are not extensive. A large proportion of the population do business in the city, and during the day the town appears almost deserted. A different aspect is presented as the evening trains arrive. The general appearance of the town and its residences is indicative of wealth and culture.

Most of the streets are wide, well shaded, and macadamized, and the dwellings are generally of a character fitted to bear the closest scrutiny as to design, finish and surroundings. The hills in the background greatly enhance the attractiveness of the town as a whole.

******

The above paragraphs are not original—they first appeared in Warner's "History of Allegheny County" in 1889!

But today's visitor to Sewickley can still see the grandeur of the Nineteenth Century in the great homes and extensive lawns throughout the borough. There have been many changes, but they are difficult to discern, because even now the borough retains a quiet dignity that drowns on display of large and conspicuous advertising.

A great many of the large homes, for example, are now apartment houses or boarding houses, for the lack of domestic servants in our present economy has forced the wealthy to move out of their three and four-story mansions and into ranch-type or other utility-type homes that can be maintained by a minimum of household help.

Another change is the retreat of the wealthy to the hills, in Sewickley Heights, for example. The excellent roads and the automobile have made these moves possible. So the old order has changed in many ways, but the changes are difficult to detect, and Sewickley still retains the charm that motivated the historian Warner to write the opening paragraphs in 1889.

Actually Sewickley lays claim to only one industry, that of Huckabee, Inc., a machine shop on Chadwick street, but the shopping center centered at Beaver and Broad has kept pace with the times, and there are many fine, modern shops there that draw shoppers throughout the day, so that the "deserted" look that Warner described no longer exists. Still another change from Warner's Sewickley is that the "evening train" doesn't carry the weight in 1955 that it did in 1889. Pa. Route 88, which parallels the train's route to Pittsburgh, has taken the lion's share of that burden!

The history of Sewickley probably began in 1824, when David Shields was commissioned postmaster of "Sewickley Bottom," and his post office continued in operation until 1857. A short time before this, in 1851, John Way was appointed the first postmaster of "Sewickleyville," the name of which was later changed to Sewickley (1871). Sewickley Borough was incorporated on July 6, 1853.

1871—Sewickley gas company was organized.

1873—Sewickley water commission was incorporated.

The population of Sewickley in 1870 was 1,472 (in 1954 fifteen hundred babies were born at the Sewickley Valley Hospital). The population in 1880 was 2,053, and today it is 6,000.

Edgeworth Borough

BOROUGH MANAGER Sewickley 940 SECRETARY: Mrs. L. E. Wilson

Edgeworth, the largest borough on the East side of the Ohio River, was incorporated in 1904. It is bounded on the north by Sewickley Township and Leet Township; on the east by the Borough of Sewickley Heights; on the south by the Borough of Sewickley; and on the west by the Ohio River and the Borough of Leetsdale.

Beaver Road, the old Pa. Route 88, and the Ohio River Boulevard, the new Pa. Route 88, both pass through the borough. There are two stations on the Pennsylvania Railroad within the borough, Edgeworth Station and the old Shields station.

There are but two industries in Edgeworth, the Homestead Valves Manufacturing Company and the Chase Chemical Company, both on the Boulevard.

Edgeworth is best known for its beautiful homes and large estates, some of which may well be termed the showplaces of the Valley. The roads are extremely well maintained, and are all lined with trees and are well lighted. The police force is small but well equipped and efficient in the discharge of its duties.

Recreational areas in Edgeworth include Walker Park, along Little Sewickley Creek, which provides picnic and athletic facilities; Edgeworth School, which has a playground and athletic field; Way Park, at the junction of Beaver Road and Meadow Lane, where the War Memorial is located; and the Sewickley Swimming Club, a private pool.

Edgeworth was the birthplace of Ethelbert Nevin, composer of "Narcissus", "The Rosary" and other well-known musical works. Nevin was born at "Vineacre" on November 25, 1862, and died on February 17, 1901, at New Haven, Connecticut.

SEWICKLEY HOSPITAL COOPERATIVE EFFORT OF AMBRIDGE, SEWICKLEY & CORAOPOLIS

The Valley Hospital, Sewickley, the pride of the three boroughs which united in its financing and construction, was opened for public inspection on Nov. 23, 1929. The hospital building towers eight stories in the air and extends three stories underground.

It was completed at a total cost of about a million dollars, the funds having been raised by the boroughs of Ambridge, Sewickley and Coraopolis with the help of the smaller adjacent communities.

Technically it was built by the Valley Hospital Association, an incorporated non-profit body, and was the outgrowth of the Sewickley Valley Hospital, erected in 1907. The old hospital was refitted and used as a nurses home.

PROJECT STARTED IN 1926

During the summer of 1926, the project of a new hospital for the valley was discussed by the directors of the Sewickley Valley Hospital, and it was decided to seek the assistance of Ambridge and Coraopolis in order to build a large, up-to-date institution that would provide for the growing population in the valley. The Ambridge Board of Trade gave its endorsement on Nov. 22, 1926 after the Community Club, the Rotary Club and the Woman's Club of Ambridge had given their endorsements.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors on Dec. 21, 1926, a committee of seven was appointed with power to employ an architect, determine designs and secure a campaign manager.

The committee consisted of Wilson A. Campbell, chairman; Walter J. Wilson, Clifford K. Wright, Sewickley; C. Roy Kerr and R. G. Manning, Ambridge; R. C. Suckley and D. W. Paul, Coraopolis; and Dr. S. S. Goldberg, New York, an authority on hospital construction, was employed as consulting architect.

MEMORIAL ROOMS & WARDS

Many of the rooms, wards and laboratories are memorials, donated by individuals, civic and industrial organizations. Among the Ambridge donors were:

Eight - bed ward, American Bridge Company and the bridge company's employees; five - bed ward, employees of the Spang, Chalfont Company; surgical dressing ward, Wyckoff Drawn Steel Company employees; five-bed ward, Riter-Conley Company and employees; promenade on the fourth floor, employees of the H. H. Robertson Company; emergency operating room, employees of the Central Tube Company; and the sun porch, National Electric Products Company.

The hospital has been improved and modernized with the passing years, and today one can see an entirely new wing, housing new and modern equipment as well as many more rooms for patients.

SEWICKLEY FACTS:

Sewickley's first house was situated between the Park Place Hotel and the river, and was owned by George Ulrey.

The original name for Division street was "Graveyard Lane."

The first merchant in Sewickley was one John R. Garrison. He owned the triangle bounded by Beaver, Division and Fife streets.

The principal streets of Sewickley were laid out by Messrs. Gray and Chadwick, both of whom are immortalized by streets named for them.

Across the Ohio River from Sewickley in the Nineteenth Century there was a tiny village named "Stoop's Ferry".

The Sewickley Herald began as The Weekly Herald on September 19, 1903, and carried many gems of information in its long life. In its early 1903 issues one correspondent objected to the motorist's disregard of a Sewickley Borough ordiance setting speed limit in the borough at eight miles per hour, saying that such motorists "endanger life, terrorize children and cause a nameless dread to steal into the hearts of fond parents."

Another correspondent wrote to the Sewickley Herald in 1903 that, as a representative of the Woman's Club, she had requested Sewickley Council to ban the big brewery wagons of the Economites from traversing the streets of Sewickley, while hauling their brew to Pittsburgh, because the sight of the beer kegs might tempt children into drinking. If it was not possible to bar the wagons entirely. Council was requested to have the drivers whip up their horses and travel faster through the town, so that not so many children would see the sight!

BOROUGH OF MIDLAND, PA.

The Borough of Midland will celebrate its Golden Anniversary in 1956, but its history reaches far beyond the fifty years back to 1906, thanks to the Chamber of Commerce and local historian H. E. Rogers, who published in 1932 a "History Of Midland And Of The Earlier Settlers".

The first evidence of Indian occupation of this territory lies in the old camping grounds near the ferry, where the high ground, sandy soil, woods to keep off the cold west winds in the winter and two springs of good water combined to make it a perfect camping spot. It was, in addition, one of the most beautiful places along the Ohio river, and had the further advantage of being within reach of both fish and game.

Many relics of Indian occupation, such as arrow heads, flint hatchets, bowls and even Indian bones have been found here and across the river where there was an Indian burying ground.

The first white families came over the mountains on pack horses, and built a block house on the south bank across the ferry. There were small openings in the north side from which the wives could keep an eye cocked for Indians appearing on the north bank, and they fashioned a conkle shell into a horn with which to sound the alarm. This horn was exhibited at the Beaver County Centennial in Beaver in 1900 by Mrs. Blanche H. Marshall.

The first record of transfer of title to the land which is now Midland tells the story of the sale of four tracts of land from Nathan Lufborough to John Hoge. The land stretched more than two miles along the river, and from the river to the top of the hill, a total of about 1200 acres. The price was $700. As Hoge was the sole owner, and the land being high bottom ground, the place was generally known as "Hoge's bottom."

(Lufborough had employed four men to take out land claims, and then got a government patent on the tract for himself.)

Plots were sold off this original tract and the purchasers cultivated the rich soil and enjoyed prosperous farms. There was, during the middle of the Nineteenth Century, a few homes along the river and the name given to it was Pottstown.

In 1865 the community felt the need of a school for their children, as the nearest schools were at Industry in the township of the same name, and at Smith's Ferry, in Ohio township. Led by J. A. Neel, the community built a school right on the line dividing the two townships and called it the Neels' Independent School. That gave a new name to the community—Neel School District, and it was so called for many years.

J. A. Neel was dead in the spring of 1905 when four men from Pittsburgh looked over his farm and that of the neighbors. These men, H. C. Fownes, W. C. Fownes, Jr., J. Ramsey Speer, and Charles McKnight were looking for a site for blast furnaces, having been unable to locate what they wanted on Neville Island.

J. A.'s son, Arch Neel, proved that his father was smart in building a school for the youngsters of the neighborhood, for Arch sold the farm of 397 acres to the combine for $87,000; the neighbor, Brucker, sold his 158 acres for $37,000—in all, the combine bought 991 acres and some perches.

The combine then formed the Midland Steel Company, and in July of 1905 construction was started on a blast furnace, boiler shop and pig machine.

A town was laid out and called Midland, after the name Midland Steel, the steel being made midway between the Pittsburgh steel district and the Wheeling steel district.

The company began the construction of about twenty houses, all of them on Beaver avenue between Fourth and Seventh streets. The first to be finished was on the corner of Seventh street and Beaver Avenue, and was used at the time for the headquarters of the engineers and draftsmen.

BEAVER FALLS 2369-R

In the fall of 1906 the blast furnace was completed and put into operation, Mrs. J. Ramsey Speer lighting the first fire.

Some of the first residents to come to Midland included J. M. Porter, Elmer Arbuckle, Dr. Hensel, Eddie Breeman, Catherine McNeill, Pete Weissen, Charles Brozic, John Marcovich and Vincent DeMaggio. Porter, who had carried the newspapers from West Bridgewater to Midland by horse and buggy during the fall and winter of 1905, moved to Midland in March, 1906, and opened the first store in Midland in the front room of his house on Beaver street between Sixth and Seventh streets.

The Cook Building was the first to be built on Midland Avenue, and the First National Bank and the Midland Hotel were both completed in the fall of 1906, and the Presbyterian church in December of that year. A small school was built on the Seventh Street School grounds, and both it and the old school were used for the 1906-07 school term.

Peter Weissen moved into and managed the Orchard Hotel which the steel company had built. Later he bought it and changed the name to the Weiseen Hotel.

Mike Brozic started a meat shop in a small building along the low ground; the Ellwood Lumber Company of Midland and Ellwood set up a lumber yard by the railroad siding. Dr. Hensel was the first medical man, and Mr. Gamble the first druggist.

Mr. Breeman became the first postmaster, and the post office was first located in the rear of the bank building. Charles McNeill, Sr., was the first justice of the peace; Mr. Rodgers the first barber; Dan Springer was in charge of the steel company farm and supplied meat, butter and milk for the company and supplied teams of horses for company hauling; W. C. Rice was in charge of the company's building ground, which was known as the Midland Realty Company.

NEW INDUSTRIES

In 1908 the Beaver-Steubenville electric railway was constructed and the trolley car became the favorite mode of travel, replacing the railroad, the river packet, and the horse and buggy. The trolley car made it possible for Midland to supply labor to new industries which had watched the Midland Steel build-up with envy.

It was still in 1906 that the S. Jarvis-Adams Company began the construction of a foundry in Midland, and that company operated it for four or five years until the Pittsburgh Steel and Iron Foundries Company took over. Around 1925 the MacKintosh-Hemphill Company bought the works and named it the Midland Plant of the MacKintosh-Hemphill Company. Today it is the MacKintosh-Hemphill Division of the E. W. Bliss Co.

In 1907 the Rust Boiler Company constructed the Rust Boiler Works fronting on the river south of the S. Jarvis-Adams foundry, and was turning out finished products that summer. A couple of years later the Babcock-Wilcox Company took over the plant, and they in turn leased it to the Treadwell Construction Company, which later bought the plant outright and more than doubled its size.

The Treadwell Construction Company's name will go down in history as the builders of the locks for the Panama Canal, and more recently, important parts of the atomic cannon.

In 1911 the Midland Steel Company works were sold to the Crucible Steel Company of Pittsburgh for the purpose of supplying its several works in and about Pittsburgh with material.

The works grew by leaps and bounds after Crucible Steel took over. Open hearth furnaces and blooming mill were built in 1913; the shops and bar mill in 1914; the billet mill in 1916; the foundry in 1917; the No. 3 blast furnace and boiler plant in 1919.

The first coke ovens—120 of the old style, beehive ovens—were built by the Midland Steel; the by-products system was built by the Crucible Steel Company in 1918-1920, consisting of 100 Koppen or generating ovens.

The works are now part of the Pittsburgh Crucible Division of the Crucible Steel Company of America, and pay approximately 78% of the real estate taxes in the Borough!

THE DEPRESSION IN MIDLAND

It is interesting to note that in the depression days of the early thirties Midland had a population of 6,007, according to the 1930 census. Of this period historian Rogers wrote:

". . . Midland's population, composed of men and women of various nationalities, are to be highly commended and praised for its good behavior, unity, good will and unselfishness in looking after one another's interests. God's blessing is sure to continue with such a people."

Other industries include the Defense Plant Corporation, Midland Slag Company, Midland Water Company, Air Reduction Sales Company, and Rem-Cru Corporation, a subsidiary of Crucible Steel Company and Remington Arms. Rem-Cru is the largest researcher, manufacturer and processor of titanium in the world.

Almost eight thousand persons are employed at these Midland plants with a monthly payroll in excess of $2,000,000. An idea of the value of these industries to the economy of Midland can be gleaned from the assessed valuations for 1951, the latest available at time of publication: Crucible Steel Company, $11,521,195; Midland Water Company, $45,055; Defense Plant Corporation, $429,915; MacKintosh-Hemphill Company, $227,275; Treadwell Construction Company, $153,445; and Midland Slag Company, $10,000.

Immediately adjacent to Midland there are docking and storage facilities for millions of gallons of fuels by the Standard Oil Company of Pennsylvania, Socony-Vacuum Oil Company, Tuscaroras Oil Company, Ltd., and the Shell Oil Company.

Transportation in the Midland area is served not only by the fine facilities for river freight, but also by the Pennsylvania Railroad and numerous trucking and express companies. Passenger Transportation is provided by the Greyhound Bus Line, the Beaver Valley Bus Company and the Doty Bus Line, a local company. Pa. Route 68 passes through the borough, as does route 168.

RECREATIONAL AREAS

Midland's youngsters are fortunate in many ways, but in the field of recreation they are exceptionally blessed. There's plenty of "growing room" around Midland, and there are also many spots set aside for organized play and athletics. In addition to the playgrounds at the grade schools, the high school field is one of the finest and most modern in the county; the Veterans Memorial Swimming Pool is a mecca for both youngsters and grown-ups during the summer; Crucible has provided a picnic grounds and athletic field; there is a motion picture theatre; there are tennis courts at the Presentation School; and a Teen-Age Canteen on Friday and Saturday nights at the Municipal Building.

MIDLAND FACTS

Midland has always been a "natural" for a ferry across the Ohio since the first white men moved into the Valley. As early as 1817 a map maker showed a ferry here, named, at that time, "Chrisloe's Ferry".

The Midland Post Office is modern in every respect and efficiently staffed. As of January 1, 1953, it was named a first class post office.

In addition to the energetic Board of Trade, there's also the Women's Civic Club Juniors, the Business and Professional Women's Club, the Knights of Columbus, a Masonic Lodge, the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, and both a Rotary and Lions Club, in addition to numerous church and school groups.

The Seventh Street school has practically a sports arena of its own on the school grounds. There's an open basketball court that's used for roller skating at night; during freezing weather the court is flooded and it becomes an ice skating rink!

Midland Boosters are naturally led by the Board of Trade, of which Mr. Basinger, of the Basinger & Gifford Agency, at 744 Midland avenue, is the secretary; but as a close second Borough Engineer Richard E. Steebner brings forth fact after fact to back up his claim of Midland's destiny as a great city of the future. Mr. Steebner is also chief field engineer for the Pittsburgh-Midland area of the Crucible Steel Company.

SMITH'S FERRY INDIAN "PICTOGRAPHS"

About a half-mile above Smith's Ferry, on the North or right-hand bank of the Ohio, is a large group of interesting Indian picture-carvings. These pictures have been cut with some rude instruments upon the surface of the Piedmont sandstone which is here exposed in the bed of the river at a three-foot stage of water.

These carvings are scattered over the surface of the rock ledge for a space about forty feet in width and seven hundred in length, and represent a great variety of the forms of men and animals, birds, fishes and reptiles, including the beaver, the bear, the wolf, the turtle, the snake, and the eagle; human foot-prints and the tracks of various beasts, as well as inanimate objects, such as the scalp-hoop, bows and arrows, etc.

There is also a picture of a bison chasing a dog, which is supposed to be the only existing drawing of the American buffalo made by Indians.

Whether these carvings or drawings have any significance or not cannot now be certainly known. Some consider them only the idle work of Indians loafing or fishing along the river. They may, possibly, however, have some connection with individual or tribal totemism, or be the record of achievements in battle or the chase.

It has been suggested that they may possibly mark the boundaries of territory or purchases.

Similar rock-pictures are found elsewhere in the state. In Venango County. on the left bank of the Allegheny River, five miles south of Franklin (nine by water), is a rock known as the "Indian god"; and below the dam upon the Susquehanna River at Safe Harbor, Pa., are two gneissic rocks on which are a large number of pictures, many of them the counterpart of those at Smith's Ferry. The location of the two large groups, and the repetition in them of the forms of the wolf and the turtle, from which well-known tribes of the Delaware Indians were named, would seem to connect them with that nation.

SALT WELL IN OLD INDUSTRY

The village of Industry dates from September 14, 1836, but a post office was established there in 1833. In the olden days there was considerable activity in the area, and it was of sufficient volume to name the town after it.

When the oil boom developed in western Pennsylvania a well 800 feet deep was drilled at Industry, and the drillers did get a bit of oil and some gas for their efforts, but not enough to make the well pay.

It was found that there was a heavy concentration of salt in the well, and salt was manufactured from it for some years at the rate of ten barrels a day. Twenty barrels of water produced one barrel of salt.
